

Drive Carefully CHILDREN should be seen and not hurt

Mandate extended for six more months Peres sees UN chief on upping Unifil role

Jerusalem Post Staff and Agencies. — UNITED NATIONS. — UN Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar and Prime Minister Peres discussed a possible expanded role for the UN peacekeeping force in Southern Lebanon on Friday, shortening the Security Council mandate for the force another six-month mandate.

The council voted 13-0, with the Soviet Union and the Ukraine abstaining, to keep the UN Truce Supervision Force in Lebanon (Unifil) holding its present positions until next April 19. This would allow Perez de Cuellar time to try to work out new peacekeeping arrangements in consultation with Lebanon and "other parties directly concerned."

The 15-nation council merely took note of a report Perez de Cuellar issued last week, proposing that Unifil help fill the security vacuum in Southern Lebanon once Israel begins to withdraw and the area be turned into a "zone of peace."

Perez de Cuellar recommended that Unifil temporarily be deployed with Lebanese Army units and "internal security forces" in areas vacated by Israel. UN sources noted that the secretary-general's report was intentionally vague about the internal forces, leaving open the possibility of integrating the pro-Israeli militia force (South Lebanese Army) into security arrangements — provided Lebanon agrees.

The peacekeeping force's previously approved six-month mandate had been set to expire on October 19, and the Lebanese government had asked for an extension, saying Unifil "continues to be an important factor in providing stability."

Unifil, which now numbers 5,680 men, has been in Southern Lebanon since March 1978, but has performed only limited security and humanitarian functions since the June 1982 Israeli invasion. An Israeli source said Peres, during the 40-minute meeting in his New York hotel suite, had restated to Perez de Cuellar that the 15,000 Israeli troops would withdraw only after security guarantees were given by Lebanon and Syria against resumption of "terrorist" activities in the border area.

While Syria has not said "no," the source said, Israel is still awaiting a definite "yes."

The security council extension "was only a technical one. For the time being there is no change in our role of deployment," Unifil spokesman Timor Goksel, told The Jerusalem Post yesterday.

However, Unifil considers the new extension as "leaving open the options" if and when the "situation on the ground" alters, he said.

Meanwhile, Reuters reports that a UN team has toured Southern Lebanon to prepare a report on positions UN forces would take up if Israeli troops withdrew.

They said the group, including several UNifil officers, toured areas around the Israeli frontline at the Awali River on Friday.

They said the group, including several UNifil officers, toured areas around the Israeli frontline at the Awali River on Friday.

They said the group, including several UNifil officers, toured areas around the Israeli frontline at the Awali River on Friday.

They said the group, including several UNifil officers, toured areas around the Israeli frontline at the Awali River on Friday.

They said the group, including several UNifil officers, toured areas around the Israeli frontline at the Awali River on Friday.

They said the group, including several UNifil officers, toured areas around the Israeli frontline at the Awali River on Friday.

They said the group, including several UNifil officers, toured areas around the Israeli frontline at the Awali River on Friday.

They said the group, including several UNifil officers, toured areas around the Israeli frontline at the Awali River on Friday.

They said the group, including several UNifil officers, toured areas around the Israeli frontline at the Awali River on Friday.

They said the group, including several UNifil officers, toured areas around the Israeli frontline at the Awali River on Friday.

They said the group, including several UNifil officers, toured areas around the Israeli frontline at the Awali River on Friday.

They said the group, including several UNifil officers, toured areas around the Israeli frontline at the Awali River on Friday.

They said the group, including several UNifil officers, toured areas around the Israeli frontline at the Awali River on Friday.

They said the group, including several UNifil officers, toured areas around the Israeli frontline at the Awali River on Friday.

They said the group, including several UNifil officers, toured areas around the Israeli frontline at the Awali River on Friday.

They said the group, including several UNifil officers, toured areas around the Israeli frontline at the Awali River on Friday.

Exterior of the Grand Hotel in Brighton early on Friday after a bomb killed three people and seriously wounded Industry Secretary Norman Tebbit during the Conservative Party convention.

IRA bomb kills three at British PM's hotel

BRIGHTON (Reuters). — The Irish terrorist bomb that nearly blew up Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher and most of her government on Friday may have been planted weeks ago, a police chief said yesterday.

The head of Scotland Yard's anti-terrorist squad, Commander Bill Huckleby, told a news conference the blast that ripped apart the upper stories of Thatcher's seafront hotel was probably caused by a highly sophisticated time bomb.

Three people, including Conservative MP Sir Anthony Berry, were killed in the pre-dawn explosion, and a fourth person was still missing as of late last night.

Thirty-two people were injured and 14 remained in hospital yesterday including Trade Minister Norman Tebbit. Thatcher and almost all of her top ministers were staying at the hotel, the Grand, for the ruling Conservative Party's annual conference.

The underground Irish Republican Army, waging war against British rule in Northern Ireland, claimed responsibility for the bombing at this south coast resort.

"The IRA now have the ability to time a device in a more sophisticated manner than before," Huckleby noted with concern. "It could have been possible to place the bomb and time it to three weeks, two hours and 30 seconds."

He said police dogs trained to sniff out explosives had been through the 185-room hotel but could still have missed the bomb, which may have been hidden under floorboards.

Thatcher escaped unhurt. Security sources said she had a narrow escape as she left the bathroom of her suite just two minutes before it was wrecked by the blast. The premier later visited the injured in hospital.

The police chief said she would certainly have been injured if she had still been in the bathroom.

Security sources yesterday said the bomb could signal the start of a new terror campaign in mainland Britain by the IRA.

They said the IRA is determined to show it is still a formidable force and traditionally turned from the main battlefield of Northern Ireland to hit the British mainland.

The sources said the attack in Brighton was beyond the scale of previous IRA attacks.

They said the IRA is determined to show it is still a formidable force and traditionally turned from the main battlefield of Northern Ireland to hit the British mainland.

They said the IRA is determined to show it is still a formidable force and traditionally turned from the main battlefield of Northern Ireland to hit the British mainland.

They said the IRA is determined to show it is still a formidable force and traditionally turned from the main battlefield of Northern Ireland to hit the British mainland.

They said the IRA is determined to show it is still a formidable force and traditionally turned from the main battlefield of Northern Ireland to hit the British mainland.

They said the IRA is determined to show it is still a formidable force and traditionally turned from the main battlefield of Northern Ireland to hit the British mainland.

They said the IRA is determined to show it is still a formidable force and traditionally turned from the main battlefield of Northern Ireland to hit the British mainland.

They said the IRA is determined to show it is still a formidable force and traditionally turned from the main battlefield of Northern Ireland to hit the British mainland.

They said the IRA is determined to show it is still a formidable force and traditionally turned from the main battlefield of Northern Ireland to hit the British mainland.

They said the IRA is determined to show it is still a formidable force and traditionally turned from the main battlefield of Northern Ireland to hit the British mainland.

They said the IRA is determined to show it is still a formidable force and traditionally turned from the main battlefield of Northern Ireland to hit the British mainland.

Israel hoping for aid without U.S. squeeze

By WOLF BLITZER Jerusalem Post Correspondent WASHINGTON. — Israeli officials are hoping that the new joint U.S.-Israeli economic committee will demonstrate a strong sensitivity to Israel's political concerns and not force "heavy-handed" economic measures in exchange for increased American aid.

The committee of U.S. and Israeli diplomats and economists is to convene in Washington for preliminary sessions within the next two weeks. The membership of the panel is still being assembled.

Israeli officials, while clearly pleased by the establishment of the committee, said yesterday they are still concerned that its decisions could embarrass the national unity government if the U.S. side demands severe structural changes in the Israeli economy.

The Americans say they don't want to be in a position of lecturing to Israel or of humiliating Prime Minister Shimon Peres, who was due to leave New York last night to return to Israel.

Given the existing political circumstances, U.S. officials said yesterday the national unity government under Peres is "about as good as we can hope for."

Thus, the U.S., at this stage does not want to do anything which might undermine Peres's position.

At the same time, U.S. officials, especially Secretary of State George Shultz, are determined to encourage Israel to take the belt-tightening measures necessary to revive its economy.

Shultz established what U.S. officials yesterday described as a "very good rapport" with Peres during their talks in Washington last week. "They got off to a good start," one U.S. source said.

That was also the case between Peres and President Reagan, U.S. officials added. The president reportedly assured Peres that Israel could count on strong financial support provided that Israel implements its recovery plan.

According to U.S. and Israeli officials Reagan did not flatly commit the administration to any specific sum in the next year's foreign-aid bill for Israel. Peres, however, let the Americans know that Israel would need at least $1 billion in additional assistance beyond this past year's $2.6b. level.

Well-placed diplomatic sources said Reagan also urged Peres to personally telephone "any time" if he felt it was important for an exchange between the two leaders.

The president also privately informed Peres not to worry about the Reagan peace plan for the time being.

Reagan was said to have noted that Jordan and other Arab states are in any case not willing to participate so the plan was not now "operational."

U.S. and Israeli officials yesterday continued to offer an upbeat assessment to the Reagan-Peres summit despite some potential pitfalls on the economic front in the months ahead.

Walter Rube adds from New York: Peres told bankers and businessmen Friday that despite Israel's economic crisis, the country is a good place for investment.

In separate meetings with the bankers and the business executives, Israeli sources said that Peres painted Israel's economic position in "stark terms," but said he "made a strong case" that the steps the unity government has taken and is planning for investment.

In separate meetings with the bankers and the business executives, Israeli sources said that Peres painted Israel's economic position in "stark terms," but said he "made a strong case" that the steps the unity government has taken and is planning for investment.

In separate meetings with the bankers and the business executives, Israeli sources said that Peres painted Israel's economic position in "stark terms," but said he "made a strong case" that the steps the unity government has taken and is planning for investment.

In separate meetings with the bankers and the business executives, Israeli sources said that Peres painted Israel's economic position in "stark terms," but said he "made a strong case" that the steps the unity government has taken and is planning for investment.

In separate meetings with the bankers and the business executives, Israeli sources said that Peres painted Israel's economic position in "stark terms," but said he "made a strong case" that the steps the unity government has taken and is planning for investment.

In separate meetings with the bankers and the business executives, Israeli sources said that Peres painted Israel's economic position in "stark terms," but said he "made a strong case" that the steps the unity government has taken and is planning for investment.

In separate meetings with the bankers and the business executives, Israeli sources said that Peres painted Israel's economic position in "stark terms," but said he "made a strong case" that the steps the unity government has taken and is planning for investment.

In separate meetings with the bankers and the business executives, Israeli sources said that Peres painted Israel's economic position in "stark terms," but said he "made a strong case" that the steps the unity government has taken and is planning for investment.

In separate meetings with the bankers and the business executives, Israeli sources said that Peres painted Israel's economic position in "stark terms," but said he "made a strong case" that the steps the unity government has taken and is planning for investment.

In separate meetings with the bankers and the business executives, Israeli sources said that Peres painted Israel's economic position in "stark terms," but said he "made a strong case" that the steps the unity government has taken and is planning for investment.

In separate meetings with the bankers and the business executives, Israeli sources said that Peres painted Israel's economic position in "stark terms," but said he "made a strong case" that the steps the unity government has taken and is planning for investment.

In separate meetings with the bankers and the business executives, Israeli sources said that Peres painted Israel's economic position in "stark terms," but said he "made a strong case" that the steps the unity government has taken and is planning for investment.

In separate meetings with the bankers and the business executives, Israeli sources said that Peres painted Israel's economic position in "stark terms," but said he "made a strong case" that the steps the unity government has taken and is planning for investment.

In separate meetings with the bankers and the business executives, Israeli sources said that Peres painted Israel's economic position in "stark terms," but said he "made a strong case" that the steps the unity government has taken and is planning for investment.

In separate meetings with the bankers and the business executives, Israeli sources said that Peres painted Israel's economic position in "stark terms," but said he "made a strong case" that the steps the unity government has taken and is planning for investment.

In separate meetings with the bankers and the business executives, Israeli sources said that Peres painted Israel's economic position in "stark terms," but said he "made a strong case" that the steps the unity government has taken and is planning for investment.

In separate meetings with the bankers and the business executives, Israeli sources said that Peres painted Israel's economic position in "stark terms," but said he "made a strong case" that the steps the unity government has taken and is planning for investment.

In separate meetings with the bankers and the business executives, Israeli sources said that Peres painted Israel's economic position in "stark terms," but said he "made a strong case" that the steps the unity government has taken and is planning for investment.

In separate meetings with the bankers and the business executives, Israeli sources said that Peres painted Israel's economic position in "stark terms," but said he "made a strong case" that the steps the unity government has taken and is planning for investment.

In separate meetings with the bankers and the business executives, Israeli sources said that Peres painted Israel's economic position in "stark terms," but said he "made a strong case" that the steps the unity government has taken and is planning for investment.

In separate meetings with the bankers and the business executives, Israeli sources said that Peres painted Israel's economic position in "stark terms," but said he "made a strong case" that the steps the unity government has taken and is planning for investment.

In separate meetings with the bankers and the business executives, Israeli sources said that Peres painted Israel's economic position in "stark terms," but said he "made a strong case" that the steps the unity government has taken and is planning for investment.

In separate meetings with the bankers and the business executives, Israeli sources said that Peres painted Israel's economic position in "stark terms," but said he "made a strong case" that the steps the unity government has taken and is planning for investment.

In separate meetings with the bankers and the business executives, Israeli sources said that Peres painted Israel's economic position in "stark terms," but said he "made a strong case" that the steps the unity government has taken and is planning for investment.

Prime Minister Peres breakfasts with former U.S. secretary of state Henry Kissinger at Peres's hotel in New York at the end of last week.

Weinberger arrives for talks with Mubarak

CAIRO (Reuters). — U.S. Defence Secretary Caspar Weinberger arrived in Cairo last night for talks with President Hosni Mubarak and other officials.

Weinberger told reporters at Cairo Airport he would resume consultations with Mubarak and Defence Minister Field Marshal Abdel-Halim Abu Ghazala.

Weinberger, touring the Middle East following the Nato talks in Italy, will spend two days in Cairo.

He said his talks here would underline the warm and close continuing relationship between Egypt and the U.S. at this "very important time and this critically important part of the world."

Weinberger, who is to start his talks with Mubarak today, said he would certainly discuss military aid to Egypt, but declined to say whether any increase is being considered.

Egypt received around $2.25 billion a year in U.S. civil and military aid, making it the second largest recipient of U.S. aid in the world, after Israel.

A prominent aide to Mubarak was quoted yesterday as saying that Jordanian King Hussein's publicly announced position on peace negotiations with Israel should not be taken at face value.

"Announced statements do not necessarily reflect actual attitudes," Mubarak's deputy for foreign affairs, at the ruling National Democratic Party said in an interview with the weekly newspaper Akhbar al Yom.

"My own assessment is that King Hussein's rejection must be viewed in the light of Israel's current practices, which do not reflect a sincere intent to negotiate without precondition," Mustafa Khalil added.

Khalil was commenting on Hussein's prompt rejection of Prime Minister Peres's public invitation for peace talks between Israel and Jordan.

Khalil expressed the view that unless there is an improvement in the Arab atmosphere of disunity, Hussein may find no alternative to negotiations with Israel.

"First of all, I don't believe that King Hussein is adverse to negotiations... If Arab unanimity on a formula for a Palestinian solution is untenable, then anybody who wants to save the Israeli occupied territories will have no route except bilateral negotiations," Khalil said.

Khalil expressed the view that unless there is an improvement in the Arab atmosphere of disunity, Hussein may find no alternative to negotiations with Israel.

Khalil expressed the view that unless there is an improvement in the Arab atmosphere of disunity, Hussein may find no alternative to negotiations with Israel.

Khalil expressed the view that unless there is an improvement in the Arab atmosphere of disunity, Hussein may find no alternative to negotiations with Israel.

Khalil expressed the view that unless there is an improvement in the Arab atmosphere of disunity, Hussein may find no alternative to negotiations with Israel.

Khalil expressed the view that unless there is an improvement in the Arab atmosphere of disunity, Hussein may find no alternative to negotiations with Israel.

Khalil expressed the view that unless there is an improvement in the Arab atmosphere of disunity, Hussein may find no alternative to negotiations with Israel.

Khalil expressed the view that unless there is an improvement in the Arab atmosphere of disunity, Hussein may find no alternative to negotiations with Israel.

Khalil expressed the view that unless there is an improvement in the Arab atmosphere of disunity, Hussein may find no alternative to negotiations with Israel.

Khalil expressed the view that unless there is an improvement in the Arab atmosphere of disunity, Hussein may find no alternative to negotiations with Israel.

Khalil expressed the view that unless there is an improvement in the Arab atmosphere of disunity, Hussein may find no alternative to negotiations with Israel.

Khalil expressed the view that unless there is an improvement in the Arab atmosphere of disunity, Hussein may find no alternative to negotiations with Israel.

Khalil expressed the view that unless there is an improvement in the Arab atmosphere of disunity, Hussein may find no alternative to negotiations with Israel.

Khalil expressed the view that unless there is an improvement in the Arab atmosphere of disunity, Hussein may find no alternative to negotiations with Israel.

Khalil expressed the view that unless there is an improvement in the Arab atmosphere of disunity, Hussein may find no alternative to negotiations with Israel.

Khalil expressed the view that unless there is an improvement in the Arab atmosphere of disunity, Hussein may find no alternative to negotiations with Israel.

Khalil expressed the view that unless there is an improvement in the Arab atmosphere of disunity, Hussein may find no alternative to negotiations with Israel.

Khalil expressed the view that unless there is an improvement in the Arab atmosphere of disunity, Hussein may find no alternative to negotiations with Israel.

Khalil expressed the view that unless there is an improvement in the Arab atmosphere of disunity, Hussein may find no alternative to negotiations with Israel.

Khalil expressed the view that unless there is an improvement in the Arab atmosphere of disunity, Hussein may find no alternative to negotiations with Israel.

Two-hour battle rages in Beirut hills

BEIRUT (AP). — Rival militias in Lebanon's civil war clashed yesterday in a two-hour artillery battle under illuminating flares during the night in the hills overlooking Beirut. Police said there were no reports of casualties.

The fighting pitted militiamen of Druse leader Walid Jumblatt's Progressive Socialist Party against Christians of the right-wing Phalange Party, police said.

The sound of exploding shells echoed through the Lebanese capital as the antagonists traded mortar and rocket barrages at the hilltop villages of Beaba and Maroufieh, about 10 kilometres southeast of Beirut.

The sound of exploding shells echoed through the Lebanese capital as the antagonists traded mortar and rocket barrages at the hilltop villages of Beaba and Maroufieh, about 10 kilometres southeast of Beirut.

The sound of exploding shells echoed through the Lebanese capital as the antagonists traded mortar and rocket barrages at the hilltop villages of Beaba and Maroufieh, about 10 kilometres southeast of Beirut.

The sound of exploding shells echoed through the Lebanese capital as the antagonists traded mortar and rocket barrages at the hilltop villages of Beaba and Maroufieh, about 10 kilometres southeast of Beirut.

The sound of exploding shells echoed through the Lebanese capital as the antagonists traded mortar and rocket barrages at the hilltop villages of Beaba and Maroufieh, about 10 kilometres southeast of Beirut.

The sound of exploding shells echoed through the Lebanese capital as the antagonists traded mortar and rocket barrages at the hilltop villages of Beaba and Maroufieh, about 10 kilometres southeast of Beirut.

The sound of exploding shells echoed through the Lebanese capital as the antagonists traded mortar and rocket barrages at the hilltop villages of Beaba and Maroufieh, about 10 kilometres southeast of Beirut.

The sound of exploding shells echoed through the Lebanese capital as the antagonists traded mortar and rocket barrages at the hilltop villages of Beaba and Maroufieh, about 10 kilometres southeast of Beirut.

Britons outraged by bombing

LONDON (Reuters). — Screaming headlines and outraged editorials brought home to the British people the realization that Irish bombers came very close on Friday to killing Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher and other leaders of her Conservative administration.

Businessman Dennis Martin told a reporter interviewing "the man in the street" that he could hardly sleep for worry over the implications of the assassination bid. "It's just unbelievable," he said.

Martin held a copy of the right-wing Daily Mail with an editorial declaring: "A whole government could have been virtually wiped out in an act of mass assassination without precedent in Europe or the United States."

"It's just beginning to dawn on me that these bastards came near to wiping out the entire government," said London bus conductor Frank Burton. "I'm not an admirer of Mrs. Thatcher, but no one should be allowed to get away with this."

Members of the public seemed as much concerned with the enormity of what could have happened as with the actuality of at least three deaths in the devastated Grand Hotel.

"The Brighton bomb represents the most destructive single assault on the organs of the state since the attempt to blow up Parliament 380 years ago," said The Times.

Public feeling was fuelled by stark, single-word headlines. "murder," trumpeted the left-leaning Daily Mirror. "Unbowed," the right-wing Daily Express exulted.

Even among her political opponents there was a tide of admiration for Thatcher's cool and controlled demeanour after the mighty pre-dawn explosion. Some newspapers took to calling her "magnificent Maggie."

In a vein of vengeance, Britain's top-selling daily Sun ran an editorial urging that the IRA "must be hunted remorselessly and exterminated like rats."

One Conservative member of parliament, Peter Bruinvels, told reporters he would introduce a bill to restore the death penalty for murder by terrorists.

The bomb hit a crane which was badly damaged, and one seaman was injured by shrapnel.

The ship dropped anchor near the Bahrain coast shortly before sunup Friday.

The ship dropped anchor near the Bahrain coast shortly before sunup Friday.

12 killed in road accidents last week

Twelve persons were killed in road accidents last week, and three more were killed yesterday.

There were 134 road accidents last week, in which 76 persons were seriously injured. Among those killed were six pedestrians, three of them minors.

Two of yesterday's deaths took place when a semi-trailer carrying potatoes overturned near the Nafah intersection in the Golan Heights, killing the driver and a passenger.

The other death occurred when a 71-year-old woman attempted to cross the Acre-Haifa highway near Kibbutz Ein Hamifratz and was hit by a car. (Irim)

The other death occurred when a 71-year-old woman attempted to cross the Acre-Haifa highway near Kibbutz Ein Hamifratz and was hit by a car. (Irim)

The other death occurred when a 71-year-old woman attempted to cross the Acre-Haifa highway near Kibbutz Ein Hamifratz and was hit by a car. (Irim)

Scientist proposes sheep-powered car

WELLINGTON, New Zealand (Reuters). — The amount of manure produced by one sheep in a day can produce enough methane gas to drive a small truck 40 kilometres, a New Zealand scientist says.

Dr. David Law said in a scientific conference that New Zealand can solve some of its fuel problems if it finds a way to make use of the "by-product" of its 72 million sheep.

Law said New Zealand's sheep can produce 1,000 tons of methane daily.

Law said New Zealand's sheep can produce 1,000 tons of methane daily.

Law said New Zealand's sheep can produce 1,000 tons of methane daily.

Law said New Zealand's sheep can produce 1,000 tons of methane daily.

Congress sets up fund for Ethiopians in Israel

WASHINGTON (AP). — Congress has set up a special fund for the settlement of Ethiopian Jews in Israel, according to a provision published Friday in the $14.3 billion foreign-aid package signed by President Reagan.

The establishment of the $2.5 million fund follows a "sense of Congress" resolution passed earlier this year that expressed concern over the condition of the Jewish community in Ethiopia.

The amount is in addition to the $12.5m. approved again this year for Soviet Jews and other refugees being resettled in Israel.

The amount is in addition to the $12.5m. approved again this year for Soviet Jews and other refugees being resettled in Israel.

The amount is in addition to the $12.5m. approved again this year for Soviet Jews and other refugees being resettled in Israel.

The amount is in addition to the $12.5m. approved again this year for Soviet Jews and other refugees being resettled in Israel.

The amount is in addition to the $12.5m. approved again this year for Soviet Jews and other refugees being resettled in Israel.

The amount is in addition to the $12.5m. approved again this year for Soviet Jews and other refugees being resettled in Israel.

The amount is in addition to the $12.5m. approved again this year for Soviet Jews and other refugees being resettled in Israel.

The amount is in addition to the $12.5m. approved again this year for Soviet Jews and other refugees being resettled in Israel.

The weather at major Swissair destinations

	MIN.	MAX.
AMSTERDAM	12	15	Cloudy
BRUSSELS	10	14	Cloudy
FRANKFURT	10	14	Cloudy
GENOVA	12	15	Cloudy
PARIS	12	15	Cloudy
ROME	12	15	Cloudy
VIENNA	12	15	Cloudy
ZURICH	12	15	Cloudy

*For the latest weather conditions contact Swissair.

Offices in Israel:
Tel Aviv: 41 Ben-Yehuda St. (03) 245350
Jerusalem: 20 Jaffa St. (02) 252535
Haifa: 2 S. Rabin St. (04) 849575

THE WEATHER

Forecast: Hot and dry.	Yesterday's	Today's	Max
Jerusalem	11	18-20	30
Golan	12	22-23	31
Nahariya	13	21-31	31
Safed	13	17-28	34
Haifa Port	12	17-28	34
Tiberias	12	17-28	34
Nazareth	12	17-28	34
Afula	12	17-28	34
Shomron	12	17-28	34
Tel Aviv	12	17-28	34
B-G Airport	12	17-28	34
Jericho	12	17-28	34
Gaza	12	17-28	34
Beer Sheva	12	17-28	34
Eilat	12	17-28	34

SOCIAL & PERSONAL

Yehuda Erel, Tel Aviv's delegate for international affairs and tourism, was presented on Friday with the Order of Merit 1st class by West German Ambassador Niels Hansen at the studio of Erel's close friend, artist Menashe Kadishman.

Peres chooses media adviser

Prime Minister Peres has named young diplomat Uri Savir as his media adviser. Savir, currently consul for information at the New York consulate, will take up his duties in Jerusalem immediately.

Savir was warmly recommended to the premier by Peres's one-time media adviser at the Defense Ministry, Naftali Lavie, who is now consul-general in New York. Members of the premier's staff apparently were impressed by Savir's work during Peres's U.S. visit.

It was Lavie, as spokesman at the Foreign Ministry under minister Moshe Dayan, who brought Savir into his office and encouraged him to specialize in public-relations work. Savir's candidacy as Peres's press aide was also warmly endorsed by his former boss at the Israeli Embassy in Canada, Yeshayahu Anug, under whom he served as press attaché from 1981-1983. Anug now heads the Europe section of the Foreign Ministry in Jerusalem.

Savir is a second generation foreign-service man. His father, Leo Savir, now retired, was a long-time diplomat. Among his posts were ambassador to Finland and head of protocol.

U.S. SQUEEZE

(Continued from Page One)

ning will help to turn that situation around.

After his meetings with the bankers and business people, Peres visited the Museum of Modern Art together with financier Leon Charney. The prime minister also met briefly Friday evening with New York Governor Mario Cuomo.

Last night Peres entertained Jewish writers and intellectuals at a reception at his hotel. Among those invited were Saul Bellow, Bernard Malamud, Arthur Miller, Elie Wiesel, Rabbi Arthur Hertzberg, Irving Kristol, and Leonard Fein.

Peres told Israeli journalists on Thursday that if former Democratic presidential candidate Jesse Jackson comes to Israel, Peres will receive him.

The Promised Land Ltd., Travel and Freight Office, Jerusalem, congratulates Mrs. Ilana Koniuk on the occasion of her birthday.

JUST PUBLISHED

The Fourth Wall: Jerusalem and China

By SUSAN

$7 + $1 (mailing)

Halcyon House
13 Nashashibi St.
Sheikh Jarrah
Jerusalem, Tel. 02-283964

HOME AND WORLD NEWS

Underground supporters organize rally 50,000 expected at Hebron celebration

By ROBERT ROSENBERG
Jerusalem Post Reporter

La'or, the committee to support the Jewish underground defendants, is expecting 50,000 people to attend its hakafot shnei'ot post-Simhat Tora celebrations in Hebron on Wednesday night.

As reported in The Jerusalem Post September 25, the National Religious Party has provided office space to the committee, which is headed by Yehuda Hazani, a founder of Gush Emunim. The NRP has allocated eight rooms in its Jerusalem building and five in its Tel Aviv building to the committee.

Hazani's spokesman Meir Indor explained last night that the NRP gave the office space to La'or with the approval of top party leaders. He specified that Abraham Melamed and Rafael Ben-Natan had both approved allocating the office space in the party's two main buildings.

The Israel Defense Forces has granted permission and is making logistical plans for the religious celebration-demonstration that Indor, said last night will draw 50,000 people.

The posters and other organizing material for the demonstration call for "Strengthening the hands of the builders and doers who acted against obstacles and crisis," referring to the underground defendants. This slogan angered Hanan Porat and other key settlement leaders who have found themselves at odds with La'or.

The sons of defendants will carry Tora scrolls during the first round of dancing at the celebration, Indor said.

"We think it was very generous of the NRP," said Indor, whose brother is still being sought by police as a suspect in the case. "After all there are members of Tehiya and Morasha on our committee."

An NRP source last night declined to comment on the use of the offices, but confirmed that Minister without Portfolio Yosef Burg is seeking a meeting with some of the committee's leaders.

MKs to raise possibility of Histadrut buying Ata

By DAVID RUDGE
Jerusalem Post Reporter

Four MKs have promised to press the government and the Eisenberg Group to keep the Ata textile concern open, at least until a Ministry of Industry and Trade team has come up with a long-term recovery programme.

Amnon Linn and Shevah Weiss (Labour), Meir Cohen-Avidov (Likud) and Shlomo Amar (Yahad) visited the Kiryat Ata factory last week, and said they would table a motion on the Ata crisis for Knesset debate.

They emphasized that because the government has given benefits to Ata that no other company in the country has received, the government must share the responsibility for the fate of the company and its 3,000 workers.

They were referring to the $1.5 million loan guaranteed by the government as part of a $10m. loan package to bail Ata out of its financial difficulties a year ago.

The MKs said they would raise the possibility of the Histadrut purchasing Ata using government-backed finances.

Linn told The Jerusalem Post that they intend to press for a judicial commission of inquiry to look into all business affairs of the Eisenberg Group in Israel.

He said that if such a commission is established it should ascertain whether any other companies in which investor Shaul Eisenberg has a controlling interest may go bankrupt.

Ata works committee chairman Pinhas Groob said the employees were grateful for the support of the MKs and their promise to raise the matter in the Knesset. But he added: "There has been enough talk, and that alone will not save the factory and our jobs. What we need is action."

"My immediate concern is to ensure that Ata continues to produce so that if a buyer is found it can be sold as a going concern. Nobody is going to want a factory that is already closed," he said.

2 chosen for Israel Prize in medicine

Prof. Henri N. Neufeld and Baruch Padeh will receive the 1985 Israel Prize in medicine, the Education Ministry announced last night.

Neufeld's prize is for his contribution to cardiology in Israel and abroad, both in research and in medical practice. Padeh has been chosen for his contribution to public medicine and for his pioneering voluntary work in the medical field.

Neufeld, born in 1923 in Poland, came here in 1951 as a cardiologist. He served as the Health Ministry's scientific adviser for many years, and developed the cardiology department at the Tel Aviv University School of Medicine. In 1978, he was elected president of the International Cardiology Federation.

Padeh, born in 1908 in White Russia, immigrated to the country in 1934, where he was active in the Hagana and was the doctor for the "Tower and Stockade" settlements of Masada and Sha'ar Hagolan. He was among the founders of the IDF Medical Corps, founded the Institute for Chromosome Research and in 1971 was appointed director-general of the Health Ministry. Since his retirement in 1974 he has continued working in community medicine and has served as a medical consultant to northern settlements.

The Israel Prize is to be awarded to the two doctors on Independence day.

Soviet bombers get new missiles

MOSCOW (AP). - The Soviet Defense Ministry yesterday announced it is putting new long-range cruise missiles in strategic bombers and submarines, and said the programme would "correspond" in scope to U.S. deployment of air- and sea-launched cruise missiles.

The announcement, distributed by the official Tass news agency, also reiterated Soviet statements that the military is continuing "successful tests" of ground-launched cruise missiles.

"By their scale, these measures correspond to the growing U.S. threat to the security of the USSR and other countries of the Socialist community."

There was no immediate response from the U.S. (Moscow denies - Page 4)

Car stoned near Nablus
TEL AVIV (AP). - A man was injured when his car was stoned near the Balata refugee camp near Nablus yesterday.

A curfew was imposed on the camp for about an hour, to enable security forces to search for the attackers.

Fuel pollutes sea off Eilat

EILAT (Itim). - Diesel fuel from an unknown source flowed into the sea here yesterday and polluted the town's northern beaches. The fuel stayed on the surface of the water, however, and did not damage fish in the coral reserve.

Jerusalem Post Subscription Rates

October 14, 1984
3 months	IS 23,220
6 months	IS 43,830
12 months	IS 83,270

Prices include V.A. and home delivery; any price increases during the term of your subscription will be absorbed by The Jerusalem Post.

Subscriptions Dept.,
The Jerusalem Post,
P.O.B. 81 Jerusalem 91000

Druse and Shi'ite leaders in South Lebanon shake hands after Friday's sulha.

Lahad may pardon suspects held in Sukmour massacre

By MENAHEM HOROWITZ
Jerusalem Post Reporter

MARJAYOUN. - South Lebanese Army commander Gen. Antoine Lahad said on Friday he is considering pardoning the seven Druse responsible for the massacre in Sukmour and held by the SLA.

Lahad was speaking at the second sulha (reconciliation ceremony) at his home between the sides involved in the murders of four SLA soldiers and the subsequent massacre of Shi'ite residents of Sukmour.

Observers believe that the seven will be tried according to the Lebanese Army legal code, and could be pardoned, expelled from the SLA or given a 60-day jail sentence.

Leaders of the Druse and Shi'ite communities in South Lebanon's eastern sector participated in the sulha, and agreed that an end must be put to vengeance between the two communities. Druse and Shi'ite family and clan members involved in the Sukmour killings had participated in the first reconciliation ceremony, earlier this month.

Speaking with reporters during the ceremony, Lahad said, "You reporters should forget this matter, and leave me alone, and you should tell your politicians the same."

"We Lebanese have our own customs and laws. Don't judge us in accordance with yours. This (the punishment for blood revenge) is an interior business of ours. You Israelis do not understand our way of living and our customs."

Lahad, who said he was not surprised by Prime Minister Peres's remarks on an upcoming decision on an Israeli withdrawal from South Lebanon, said he believes Unifil will have difficulty keeping peace in South Lebanon, and that the Israel Defense Forces withdrawal will take place only once the security of the Galilee is ensured. He said he believes a few political questions remain to be answered before an arrangement can be reached in South Lebanon.

Two Arabs remanded for Nicosia blast

NICOSIA (Reuters). - Two Arabs were remanded in custody for another eight days yesterday in connection with the car-bomb blast outside the Israeli embassy building here earlier this month, court sources said.

Salam Mustafa Ali, aged about 30, from Iraq, and Azmi Hussein Mahmoud Salah, about 25, from North Yemen are charged with destroying property with explosives. They face up to 14 years in jail if convicted.

Smoke grenade set off in Western Wall plaza

A smoke grenade exploded at the entrance to the Western Wall plaza yesterday morning. Police believe the grenade may have been planted by a hostile organization to create panic in the square, which is visited by thousands daily during Succot. But police also said it is possible that the incident was a practical joke.

The IDF-manufactured grenade, which went off at 9:30 a.m., was evidently placed near the guard's booth at the entrance earlier with the pin pulled and a stone lying against it to keep it from going off immediately. The grenade was evidently activated when a passerby knocked the stone aside. (Itim)

Tigers close to World Series victory

DETROIT (AP). - Alan Trammell drove in all the Detroit runs with a pair of homers and Jack Morris pitched a five-hitter to win his second game as the Tigers defeated San Diego 4-2 late yesterday to move within one victory of their fourth World Series (baseball) championship.

The victory gave the American League champions a 3-1 lead in games in the best-of-seven series. Both of Trammell's homers came after Lou Whitaker had reached base, on an error in the first inning and on a single and an error in the third. (Earlier story - p.7)

Multinational Force director here for talks

Post Diplomatic Correspondent
The new head of the Sinai Multinational Force and Observers, Peter Constable, is to hold talks in Israel today and tomorrow with government and military officials.

Constable, a former U.S. State Department official, took over at the MFO last month from Victor Dikeos, who held the post for an interim period following the assassination last February of the MFO's first head, General Leamon Hunt.

Constable has been visiting the force in Sinai and meeting with officials in Cairo in this, his first tour of the area as head of the force.

Howe says Palestinians must be in peace talks

By HYAM CORNEY
Jerusalem Post Correspondent and Agencies

BRIGHTON, England. - Foreign Secretary Sir Geoffrey Howe, due to visit Israel this month, said Thursday that the Palestinians must be directly involved in Middle East peace negotiations.

Howe, addressing a meeting during the annual conference of the ruling Conservative Party, was stressing a long-held view of the 10-nation European Economic Community.

"A solution can come only through negotiations between the directly concerned, including the Palestinians," he said.

Israel has to accept "Palestinian rights" and also freeze settlements on the West Bank, he added.

"The Palestinians will need to accept Israel's rights and the Palestine Liberation Organization in particular must demonstrate their renunciation of violence," Howe said.

Addressing a luncheon of the Conservative Friends of Israel earlier last week, Howe declared: "The most effective measures to restore confidence would be a freeze on new settlements in the occupied territories and an easing of travel and other restrictions on the Palestinian inhabitants. On the Arab side, we look for an unambiguous acceptance that Israel has the same right as any other nation to secure existence within agreed frontiers."

Howe, who will be paying an official visit to Israel on October 28-30, said that Britain believed that negotiations between Israel and the Arabs should include "authentic representatives of the Palestinians, who know how much those who live in the occupied territories long for peace."

In an outline of Britain's approach to the Arab-Israeli dispute, which shows little change from that of his predecessors, Howe repeated Britain's support for the Reagan initiative and also for the EEC initiative as expounded in the Venice Declaration. Britain, he said, was "willing to participate in measures to guarantee that a settlement lasts."

Welcoming suggestions of an Israeli withdrawal from Lebanon, he said that Britain had long regarded this as a "top priority," and had taken every opportunity to press the Syrians to withdraw as well. He believed Unifil "can play a greater part in peace-keeping in Southern Lebanon and we are ready to do what we can to assist in creating conditions for the withdrawal of all forces."

Prague hails poet Seifert on award of Nobel Prize

PRAGUE (AP). - Two days after he was awarded the Nobel Literature Prize, ailing Czechoslovak poet Jaroslav Seifert, a prominent signer of the Charter 77 human rights Manifesto, received official blessing yesterday from the Communist government.

The Communist Party daily Rude Pravo said his development "as a poet and citizen was not easy, sometimes even controversial as he himself wrote in his memoirs."

"However, the importance of his work for our poetry is indisputable," said the newspaper in a review of Seifert's work, which was accompanied by an excerpt from his memoirs. Seifert's relations with authorities have been far from relaxed since the 1950s. He condemned the 1968 Soviet-led invasion of Czechoslovakia and later signed the dissidents' rights manifesto.

He was an elected president of the militant Writers Union until it was disbanded in 1970. Rude Pravo denounced "attempts in the West to portray our leading poet as making slanderous attacks on his country... Seifert's works have a permanent place in the treasury of our poetry, and he himself is one of our most frequently published poets. For instance, in the years 1971-84 our publishers issued 18 of Seifert's books in 178,000 copies," the newspaper said.

UN panel approves Israel's seating

UNITED NATIONS (AP). - The UN Credentials Committee approved the continued seating of Israel and 126 other member states last Thursday. But Iran served notice that it will again seek Israel's ouster when the committee's report comes to the floor of the General Assembly on Wednesday.

Iran's UN mission issued a statement appealing to "peace-loving nations" to "help us cleanse this world body from all racist elements, specifically the Zionist regime occupying Palestine."

An Iranian press attaché confirmed that Iran would renew its challenge to Israel's right to sit in the General Assembly, disclosing that the Iranian delegation is exploring ways of circumventing procedural maneuvers that have been used in the past two years to prevent Iran's challenge from coming to a vote.

The Iranian moves were scuttled after strong U.S. warnings that the American delegation would cease participation in any UN body that ousted Israel and would cut off funding.

Last year, the assembly voted 79-43 with 19 abstentions for a Norwegian motion to indefinitely table consideration of Iran's challenge. A year earlier, the vote on a similar motion was 74-9, with 31 abstentions, as most Arab delegations absented themselves.

We mourn the death of our beloved husband, father, grandfather, and great-grandfather

Dr. ALFONS LOEWENTHAL

The funeral will take place today, Sunday, October 14, 1984, at 3.00 p.m. at the Kfar Sava cemetery.

His wife: Dr. Julia Loewenthal (née Metzger)
His daughter: Barbara and family
His son: Jakob and family

MAX KRYMALOWSKY (Kay)

passed away peacefully on October 11, 1984 deeply mourned by:

His wife: Malsie
Daughters: Linda Salomon, Avril Shribman, Estelle Bokey, Cynthia Snipper, Pixie Tamari, Natty Kahn and their families
Brother: Teddy Krymalowsky
He bequeathed his body to science.

With great sorrow we announce the death of the head of our family

NATHAN (Otto) GIL

The funeral will take place today, Sunday, 18 Tishri 5745 (October 14, 1984), at 4.00 p.m. at the Givat Haim Me'uhad cemetery.

The Bereaved Family

Fifteen years have passed since

DAVID ELLER fell in the line of duty.

We shall meet on Friday, October 19, 1984 - 23 Tishri 5745, at 10 a.m. at the Mt. Herzl Military Cemetery.

The Family

With profound regret, we announce the passing away in New York of our dearly beloved

SALLY KLIPPER SCHIFF

beloved wife of the late Harry Schiff

Mother of Emmanuel Klipper, Antwerp
Simon Klipper, Antwerp
Pauline Frisch, New York
Ann Crossman, New York
Joseph Klipper, New York

Her grandchildren, great-grandchildren and great-great-grandchildren in Israel and overseas.

With deep sorrow we announce the passing of our beloved

Dr. MINA KLUG-PELI

(of Jerusalem)

the daughter of Rav Yitzhak Wolf

The funeral will leave today, Sunday, October 14, 1984, at 1.30 p.m. from the Municipal Funeral Parlour, 5 Daphna St., Tel Aviv, for the Kiryat Shaul cemetery.

The bereaved:

Her brothers: Dr. Salomon Wolf and family, Tel Aviv
Dr. Edmund Wolf and family, London

Deposed Soviet chief of staff may head western command

MOSCOW (Reuters). — Marshal Nikolai Ogarkov's unexpected appearance in East Berlin a month after being replaced as chief of staff adds weight to the theory he now heads the western Soviet command, western diplomats said yesterday.

Informed Soviet sources said Ogarkov's visit to Berlin would be consistent with a new role as chief of the western command.

Ogarkov, 66, held talks Friday with East German leader Erich Honecker, his first public appearance since he was replaced by Marshal Sergei Akhromeyev as first deputy defence minister and chief of staff on September 6.

Western diplomats said his appearance Friday was as unexpected as his dismissal last month. While the East German press reported Ogarkov's talks with Honecker prominently, Soviet news media ignored the event.

"His turning up in Berlin certainly adds weight to the theory that he was demoted to head the western command," one diplomat said.

The Soviet sources said as western commander Ogarkov would control Warsaw Pact forces throughout East

Marshal Ogarkov

Europe and in the western theatre in time of war, and travel in peacetime to coordinate plans.

Ogarkov had previously been regarded as a rising figure in the Soviet power structure. Western military experts attributed his removal to his views emphasising conventional defence and playing down nuclear strategy.

East German reports did not say what Ogarkov's exact function was and referred to him only as marshal.

Moscow denies U.S. charge that it has more missiles

MOSCOW (AP). — A Soviet Foreign Ministry official on Friday dismissed U.S. Defence Secretary Casper Weinberger's charge that the Soviet Union has increased its arsenal of missiles as "dishonest play" designed to pressure Washington's western European allies.

The spokesman, Vladimir Lomeiko, criticized Weinberger, who said during a meeting of NATO defence ministers in Stresa, Italy, on Friday that the number of Soviet SS-20 nuclear missiles capable of striking western Europe had grown.

"I would like to stress that dishonest play is going on in Stresa during the past few hours," Lomeiko told a press briefing called to give the Soviets' unusually swift and formal response to Weinberger's comments. "The Soviet Union has not increased the number of its missiles and is doing all in its power to prevent the development toward nuclear confrontation," Lomeiko said.

He said that Weinberger's statement was one more example of the U.S. administration's efforts "to exert pressure on its western European allies and to force them to accede to the desires of Washington."

In Washington, Gerard Smith, former U.S. arms control negotiator, accused President Reagan of disseminating "largely false" charges of Soviet treaty violations in a possible step toward nullifying agreements with Moscow that limit nuclear weapons.

"How low they have stooped," Smith said in criticizing the report charging Moscow with breaching accords for nearly a quarter-century. "We are seeing a phenomenon which may be a precursor to getting out of the treaties themselves," he said at a news conference.

Five cabinet ministers resign in Peru reshuffle

LIMA (Reuters). — Peru's government on Friday announced its biggest cabinet reshuffle in nearly two years with resignations of five cabinet ministers.

Interior Minister Luis Pervovich, speaking after a cabinet meeting, said he had stepped down together with the ministers of education, transport, housing and planning.

President Fernando Belaunde Terry's government would shortly name all its replacements for the cabinet with which he will rule for the final nine months of his term. Pervovich said.

Zimbabwe's Nkomo says ruling party is ruining country

HARARE (Reuters). — Zimbabwean opposition leader Joshua Nkomo launched a scathing attack yesterday on Prime Minister Robert Mugabe's government, accusing it of conducting a reign of terror and leading the country to disaster.

Nkomo, delivering a key note address to the first post-independence congress of his Zanu Party in Harare, said:

"We believe that the Zanu-PF leadership (the ruling party) today is concerned with only one matter — maintaining themselves in power. It is this obsession which is causing this government to lead Zimbabwe into one tragic crisis after another."

Zanu, the Zimbabwe African People's Union, and Zanu-PF, Zimbabwe African National Union-Patriotic Front, formed a guerrilla alliance in 1976 to fight white rule in then Rhodesia but split shortly before the independence elections of 1980 and are now rivals.

Czechs hit by 50% increase in beer price

PRAGUE (Reuters). — Czechoslovakia's Communist government has slapped a 50 per cent increase on the price of beer to rein in the nation's drinkers.

The authorities sweetened the impact of the increases, the first for 18 years, with a broad improvement in social services, including family and health allowances and pensions.

An old Czech saying, that if the beer price rises the government falls, appeared unlikely to come true with the Communist authorities comfortably fixed in power. But the rise, rumoured for months, is sure to anger the thirsty habitues of Prague's bars, whose brisk trade during the day reflects a relaxed attitude to work discipline.

Official figures show that on average every Czechoslovak over 18 drinks 21 litres per year, a figure only rivalled by the drinkers of Belgium, Australia and the two Germans.

Italian police raid underworld mountain hideouts

REGGIO CALABRIA, Italy (AP). — About 800 police, forest rangers and carabinieri para-military police arrested 30 underworld suspects Friday in a sweep of suspected woodland hideouts for crime gangs, officials said.

Police officials said the search allowed them for the first time to discover hiding places which they believe are used to hold kidnap victims in the rugged mountainous area.

"For the first time, we have been able to map the area of activity of the 'Ndrangheta,'" Ugo Toscano, Reggio Calabria police chief, told reporters.

The Ndrangheta is a Mafia-style gang that operates mainly in southern Italy and is believed involved in extortion, kidnappings and drug-trafficking.

Toscano said the operation was carried out in a triangle formed by the villages of Platì, San Luca and Nardì in the toe of the Italian boot.

Astronaut Anna Fisher next month will be the first mother to fly in the U.S. space shuttle. Her daughter Kristen, 1½, accompanied her mother on board a shuttle simulator on Friday when she promptly took control. (UPI telephoto)

Challenger lands in Florida after 5.6 million km. flight

CAPE CANAVERAL (AP). — Challenger and its seven astronauts glided to a precision landing at the space shuttle's home port yesterday ending a 5.6 million kilometre space journey that surveyed earth and featured the first space walk by an American woman.

The 91,627 kilogram space plane, its dash down the east coast of Florida heralded by sonic booms, dropped out of a cloudless sky and onto a 4,572-metre runway, just 4.8 kilometres from the launch pad where the astronauts started their space adventure eight days ago.

With commander Robert Crippen at the controls, Challenger touched down at 12:27 p.m.

Thousands of spectators at the strip and along banks of the nearby Indian River cheered the landing, the second here in 13 shuttle flights.

The return to Florida was another high point for the highly rated, eight-day mission in which the crew of five men and two women — the largest ever to fly in a single space shuttle — used cameras and sensors to extensively study earth, tested tools and techniques for refueling satellites in space and recorded the first space walk by an American woman.

By landing here instead of in California, where most shuttle flights have ended, NASA is able to shave up to a week off the time needed to get a ship ready for its next flight. That is important, with the shuttle now on a once-a-month launch schedule.

Death-row escape leader executed

RICHMOND, Virginia (Reuters). — The man who led the largest death-row escape in U.S. history was executed late Friday night for the murder of a disc jockey.

Prison authorities said, Linwood Briley, 30, died in the electric chair shortly after 11 p.m. They said a large crowd, demonstrating both for and against the death penalty, were outside the prison.

Briley and his brother James, 27, led four other condemned killers in an escape from Mecklenburg Correctional Centre in Boydton, Virginia, on May 31.

Kenya counts civil servants to find imposters

NAIROBI (Reuters). — Kenya held a nationwide census of its quarter-million civil servants yesterday to root out imposters and determine the exact size of a growingly expensive bureaucracy.

From the high-rise Kenyan capital, Nairobi, to remote arid areas on the Somali and Tanzanian borders, civil servants were under orders to present themselves for registration yesterday or be struck off the November pay roll.

The unprecedented move is aimed at catching imposters on the public payroll and finding out the exact size of the civil service, an institution which had been under increasing attack from the cabinet in recent weeks, government officials said.

Mosaic-floored Roman villa unearthed in Crete

ATHENS (AP). — Greek archeologists excavating in the town of Kastelli Kismassou on Crete have unearthed parts of a luxurious Roman villa decorated with multi-coloured mosaics and frescoes, a spokesman for the Government Antiquities Service said Friday.

The spokesman said three mosaic floors had been uncovered so far, dating from the 3rd century C.E. They depicted mythical animals, a hunting scene and a still-life of fruit, vegetables and fish.

Fragments of marble columns and brightly coloured frescoes also were found at the site, discovered when construction workers started excavating for an extension to the town hospital, the spokesman said.

European air force chiefs plan joint fighter jet

ROME (AP). — Air Force chiefs of five West European nations last Thursday signed a document on the joint development of a European fighter aircraft for the mid-1990s, Italian Air Force officials announced.

In a statement, the air force said the chiefs from Britain, France, West Germany, Italy and Spain signed a "preliminary operating request" for the new aircraft.

Thursday's signing follows a meeting of the five countries' defence ministers in Madrid on July 9. The ministers decided to continue with technical and industrial feasibility studies on the fighter.

The European fighter aircraft is expected to be an air defence fighter with a secondary ground attack capability. It is likely to be a "Canard" type aircraft, with a delta wing and horizontal stabilizers located forward, the Italian officials said.

El Salvador's president to meet left-wing rebels

SAN SALVADOR (Reuters). — Government troops have withdrawn from the town in northern El Salvador where President Jose Napoleon Duarte tomorrow is to meet the left-wing rebels trying to overthrow his government.

The town of La Palma, deep in guerrilla-controlled territory of northern Chalatenango province, was briefly occupied by soldiers Friday. But its commander said they had pulled out and would be confined to a restricted area.

Col. Sigifredo Ochoa Perez, the troop commander in Chalatenango, said in a telephone interview that he had been ordered to remove his forces from the town.

He said his men now stationed close to the village of Tejada, about 20 kilometres south of La Palma. Duarte, who offered last Monday to meet the guerrillas, had said he would order a troop-withdrawal from around La Palma to reduce tensions.

The President Friday accused the guerrillas of mounting new operations in Chalatenango, scene of some of the fiercest fighting in El Salvador's five-year civil war.

A group of rightist death squads accused Duarte of treason yesterday and threatened him with "military action."

The communique from the Secret Anti-Communist Army, delivered to some news organizations, was tantamount to a death sentence.

The organization is an umbrella group that takes in several rightist death squads, including the best-known one, the Maximiliano Hernandez Brigade. The threat was delivered to some news organizations.

Mitterrand vows to battle against Basque violence

DAX, France (Reuters). — French President Francois Mitterrand made clear his government will maintain a crackdown on Basque nationalist violence as he completed a three-day tour of southwestern France yesterday.

Mitterrand was made aware during his visit to Aquitaine of anxiety about rising unemployment, and concern about the entry of Spain and Portugal into the European Community.

The president's coldest reception was in Bayonne, ancient capital of the French Basque country, where Thursday night he was greeted by story silence punctuated by a few shouted insults.

Tension has run high in the coastal region bordering Spain since the extradition of three Spanish Basques on murder charges two weeks ago.

In a town hall speech, Mitterrand said the government's battle against nationalist violence would continue. He said "this sad affair" of Spanish Basques who waged war from French territory had led to uncertainty and death.

Any Basques seeking exile in France would be granted it so long as they renounced acts of violence, he said.

'Bitov kidnapped because of pope shooting'

PARIS (AP). — An exiled Soviet writer claimed yesterday that Soviet journalist Oleg Bitov was kidnapped in London by the KGB to prevent him from testifying about the alleged Soviet-Bulgarian connection in the attempted assassination of Pope John Paul II.

Bitov disappeared from his London apartment on August 17. He reappeared in Moscow a few days later and told a news conference he had been kidnapped by British intelligence in Venice on September 8, 1983, drugged, taken to Britain and coerced into making anti-Soviet declarations.

British officials have denied the allegations, saying Bitov defected to the West voluntarily.

In a full-page article in Saturday's edition of the Paris daily Le Monde, dissident Soviet writer Anatoly Glazdine, now living in France, said he was in close contact with Bitov in London on the two days before his disappearance.

"I am persuaded that he was kidnapped in London and that he held his press conference after being carefully prepared by the KGB" — the Soviet intelligence service.

"I have the impression that the essential secret that the KGB wanted to keep concerned the circumstances of the assassination attempt against the pope. Voluntarily or not, Oleg Bitov found himself mixed up in this secret."

Kohl's China visit said successful

BERLIN (Reuters). — West German Chancellor Helmut Kohl said his six-day visit to China described by both sides as a success.

Kohl received a farewell telephone call from Premier Zhao Zhi Yang in Peking who described his visit as "very successful and fruitful," the New China News Agency (NCNA) said.

Kohl told the West German weekly newspaper Welt am Sonntag that Chancellor Helmut Kohl's visit to China between China and West Germany would not be threatened by China's desire to improve relations with the Soviet Union. "China wants a dialogue with the Soviet Union. We want the same," he said.

Kohl said he was pleased that China supported West Germany's desire for German reunification and said Peking had shown great interest and support for global arms reduction talks.

Nigeria buys 12 MiGs from Soviets

LAGOS (AP). — The Nigerian government has signed an agreement to buy 12 MiG 21B jet fighters from the Soviet Union.

Before leaving here Friday, the Soviet delegation which signed the deal called on the Nigerians to widen the agreement by allowing Soviet technicians to train local personnel in the maintenance of the planes.

At the signing ceremony last Thursday, Nigeria's acting Minister of Defence, Brig. Mohammed Magoro, said it was encouraging to note that aircraft bought from the Soviet Union several years ago were still rendering valuable service to the Nigerian Air Force.

He said there had been increased cooperation between the two countries in military, educational, cultural and economic fields, but stressed that a significant area of Soviet support had been in the development of the Nigerian armed forces.

The New Complete MEDICAL AND HEALTH ENCYCLOPEDIA

Edited by Richard J. Wagman, M.D.

Finally, a complete, authoritative reference work written expressly for the non-professional — a medical encyclopedia that clarifies and instructs. This four-volume, 1412-page set covers the basic body functions, symptoms of diseases, general nature of illnesses and the probable course of corrective action.

Includes a Medical Emergency section, edged in red for instant reference; articles written by specialists on heart disease, cancer, diabetes and other major illnesses; complete coverage of physical fitness, sex and sexuality, nutrition and weight control. All the up-to-date medical knowledge of vital concern to your entire family, from newborns to the elderly. Published by Lexicon.

List price: $39

SPECIAL OFFER FOR

JERUSALEM POST READERS — $70*

*Payable also in 5 installments of $15 each.

To: BOOKS, The Jerusalem Post, P.O.B. 81, Jerusalem 91000. Please send me THE NEW COMPLETE MEDICAL AND HEALTH ENCYCLOPEDIA

☐ At the special price of $70. Enclosed is my cheque for IS payable to Glory Ltd. (calculated at the current rate of exchange)

☐ At $75 in five dollar linked installments of $15 each. Enclosed is my cheque for IS payable to Glory Ltd. to cover the first installment (calculated at the current rate of exchange). I would like to pay the remaining installments by:

☐ Visa ☐ Isracard ☐ Bank transfer

NAME _____ CITY _____ CODE _____ TEL _____

ADDRESS _____

סלימון ישראלי

THE ISRAELI PHILHARMONIC ORCHESTRA

TEL AVIV, Mann Auditorium, 8.30 p.m.

SUBSCRIPTION CONCERT No. 1

ZUBIN MEHTA conductor
ISAAC STERN violinist
Programme of works by: Mozart and Mahler
Series 3: Tuesday, 14.10.84
Series 4: Monday, 15.10.84

TEL AVIV, Mann Auditorium, 8.30 p.m.
Series 5: Tuesday, 16.10.84

SUBSCRIPTION CONCERT No. 1

ZUBIN MEHTA conductor
ISAAC STERN violinist
Programme of works by: Mozart and Schubert

TEL AVIV, Mann Auditorium, 8.30 p.m.
Series 6: Thursday, 18.10.84
Series 7: Monday, 22.10.84
Series 8: Saturday, 27.10.84

SUBSCRIPTION CONCERT No. 1

ZUBIN MEHTA conductor
YEHUDI MENUHIN violinist
Programme of works by: Bartok and Schubert
Series 9: Thursday, 18.10.84
Series 10: Monday, 22.10.84
Series 11: Saturday, 27.10.84

SUBSCRIPTION CONCERT No. 1

ZUBIN MEHTA conductor
YEHUDI MENUHIN violinist
Programme of works by: J.S. BACH
Concerto for 2 violins
Concerto no. 2 for violin
Suites nos. 2 and 3
Series 12: Tuesday, 23.10.84
Series 13: Wednesday, 24.10.84
Series 14: Thursday, 25.10.84

SUBSCRIPTION CONCERT No. 1

ZUBIN MEHTA conductor
YEHUDI MENUHIN violinist
Programme of works by: Bartok and Mahler
Series 15: Wednesday, 24.10.84
Series 16: Thursday, 25.10.84

SUBSCRIPTION CONCERT No. 1

ZUBIN MEHTA conductor
YEHUDI MENUHIN violinist
Programme of works by: Bartok and Mahler
Series 17: Wednesday, 24.10.84
Series 18: Thursday, 25.10.84

SUBSCRIPTION CONCERT No. 1

ZUBIN MEHTA conductor
YEHUDI MENUHIN violinist
Programme of works by: Bartok and Mahler
Series 19: Wednesday, 24.10.84
Series 20: Thursday, 25.10.84

SUBSCRIPTION CONCERT No. 1

ZUBIN MEHTA conductor
YEHUDI MENUHIN violinist
Programme of works by: Bartok and Mahler
Series 21: Wednesday, 24.10.84
Series 22: Thursday, 25.10.84

SUBSCRIPTION CONCERT No. 1

ZUBIN MEHTA conductor
YEHUDI MENUHIN violinist
Programme of works by: Bartok and Mahler
Series 23: Wednesday, 24.10.84
Series 24: Thursday, 25.10.84

SUBSCRIPTION CONCERT No. 1

ZUBIN MEHTA conductor
YEHUDI MENUHIN violinist
Programme of works by: Bartok and Mahler
Series 25: Wednesday, 24.10.84
Series 26: Thursday, 25.10.84

SUBSCRIPTION CONCERT No. 1

ZUBIN MEHTA conductor
YEHUDI MENUHIN violinist
Programme of works by: Bartok and Mahler
Series 27: Wednesday, 24.10.84
Series 28: Thursday, 25.10.84

SUBSCRIPTION CONCERT No. 1

ZUBIN MEHTA conductor
YEHUDI MENUHIN violinist
Programme of works by: Bartok and Mahler
Series 29: Wednesday, 24.10.84
Series 30: Thursday, 25.10.84

THE ISRAELI CHAMBER ORCHESTRA

presenting THE NETHERLANDS CHAMBER CHOIR, Conductor: John Aldis in an A-CAPELLA PROGRAMME

Jerusalem, Dormition Abbey at 8.30 p.m.
Sunday, October 14, 1984 at 8.30 p.m.

"TONES AND VOICES" No. 2

YOAV TALMI — Conductor
MIRA ZAKAI — Orfeo — (Contra)

MICHAEL SHAMIR — Euridice — (Soprano)
LILLY TUNEH — Amore — (Soprano)

The Netherlands Chamber Choir
Conductor: John Aldis
Gluck: "Orfeo ed Euridice"

Complete Opera in Concert Version with Hebrew subtitles
JERUSALEM, Jerusalem Theatre,
Thursday, October 18, 1984 at 8.30 p.m.

TEL AVIV, Tel Aviv Museum Reconsal Hall
Series 1 — Sunday, October 21, 1984 at 9 p.m.
Series 2 — Monday, October 22, 1984 at 8.30 p.m.

* at 8.15 p.m.: "Meet the Artist"

HAIFA, Haifa Auditorium,
Saturday, October 20, 1984 at 8.30 p.m.
EIN HASHOFET — Megido Regional Hall,
Tuesday, October 23, 1984 at 9 p.m.

DETAILS & REGISTRATION
TEL AVIV — at the Orchestra's Office,
10 Rehov Hahel, Tel. 05210102
JERUSALEM — Jerusalem Theatre,
10 Rehov Hahel, Tel. 05210102
HAIFA — Haifa Auditorium, Tel. 04-682296, 682244

0509-10-08

FLY CATHAY PACIFIC
LONDON, HONG KONG non stop to FAR EAST, JAPAN, KOREA, ROUND THE WORLD
via London, Hong Kong,
SYDNEY & the PACIFIC, USA
AT SPECIAL LOW RATES

Agents: ASIACENTRE
P.O.B. 3202, Tel Aviv,
Tel. 03-228442

AD084-15

ENGLISH SPEAKING TOURS
Eddie does it again and again
October 31, 1984
LONDON THEATRE TOUR
5 shows, 4 tours, $ 599
December 2 - 9, 1984
5 shows, 4 tours, $ 555
Additional 2 nights plus 2 shows $ 599
New York Sensational, starting Dec. 1, 1984
9 days with 7 nights accommodation $ 636
During Nov. $ 666
Can be extended. AD126-1521

For details call: Eddie at Adiv Tours — 053-37114, 31975, 35027
Jerusalem Agent: Promised Land Ltd., 10 Rehov Hahel, Jerusalem,
Tel. 02-233371, Tel Aviv Agent: Barak Tours, 29 Allenby Rd., Tel. 03-286758

WE ARE EXCLUSIVE BUT NOT EXPENSIVE

The American standard of Naveh luxury condominiums, with reduced neighbour dependence combined with community facilities, puts them in a class by themselves — exclusive!

And Naveh's terrace and garden apartments in Ramat Gan are a dream! But high standard does not necessarily mean high prices.

You are invited to visit our sales offices or write for a brochure.

CHOOSE FROM —
2-4 bedroom apartments and fabulous penthouses in:
NAVEH AMIRIM — Herzliya,
Rehov Ben-Gurion, Herzliya
PEER NAVEH — fully air-conditioned
Rehov Yehoshua Bin-Nun, north of Sderot Nordau, Tel Aviv.
MEROM NAVEH — Rehov Tirza, Ramat Gan

NAVEH Construction Co. LTD.
A subsidiary of Property and Building Corp. Ltd.
53 Rehov Anisotroff, Tel Aviv Tel. 03-241166

Women in Sweden/1

Not quite paradise

While Swedish women have made their mark in the governmental, industrial and cultural spheres, they still are not satisfied, Anna Goldman-Amirav discovers.

SWEDISH WOMEN have a reputation as being the most liberated women in the world.

Having grown up there I wasn't all that impressed but after five years in the Middle East, I looked forward to spending some time in what now seemed to me like paradise on earth.

Two things struck me on my arrival. Firstly, the driver of the airport bus was very blonde, beautiful and distinctly female.

And the Swedish newspapers I thumbed through did not contain much about women or women's liberation.

This is a far cry from the situation when I left Sweden. Not only were the papers flooded with articles on women and women's rights, but also the book publishers poured a constant stream of novels and non-fiction books by and about women onto the market.

Female musicians started their own bands, the established theatres put on ambitious plays about women and their relationship to men, creativity and politics.

A minister of equality was appointed, global peace and ecological awareness became almost synonymous with women who were in the forefront of the movement against nuclear power.

The movement lost its chance to make history with only a small margin during a people's referendum, but efficient Swedish women in comfortable and colourful clothes were to be seen in the corridors of power as well as in the palaces of culture, often with a small child strapped securely to their front.

Talking with Ylva Eriksson at the Bureau of Equality of the Ministry of Labour, my first impressions actually say something about the state of women's affairs in Sweden in the year 1984.

While rattling off a whole series of impressive legislation and statistics, Eriksson concedes that the debate on women's liberation is not what it used to be.

"You reach a limit where you have got all the tools—the laws, the rights, the understanding. Then follows the grey everyday work for the shaping of the practical enforcement and holding on to the gains. And that is not so exciting for the mass media," she said.

And my friends in the women's movement agree. "It is not that things have got worse. On the contrary. But people are not that interested any longer. If you want to write an article, put on a play or publish a book on women's liberation, the male editor or producer will sigh: 'Oh, not that subject once again! Five years ago he would not have dared to speak that way.'"

Things have not got worse, but they have stagnated. Still, statistics on Swedish women are, even in their stagnated phase, the most impressive in the world.

There are 98 women in the Swedish parliament—almost a third of the total. There is also an average of 30 per cent of women in the municipalities and county councils. There are five female ministers.

One of them is the Minister of Equality and Immigration, Anita Gradin, who sees her most important task as ensuring women's "right to work."

More women than men are unemployed and that can be partly explained by the type of work they do. These fields, for example textiles, now need fewer workers.

"Women," says Minister Gradin, "have to educate themselves for the professions of the future, instead of educating ourselves for unemployment."

To this end Gradin started a $250,000 campaign to widen women's participation in industry. Surprisingly, Sweden is one of the Western European countries with Yet many Swedish couples prefer not to marry. Living together has become the most commonly accepted form of living-arrangement in Sweden. That young couples live together without getting married is almost a norm, but some do change their minds after the birth of the first or second child.

Most Swedish women are not prepared to give birth to more than two children, blaming "the society" for not being "children-friendly" enough.

This in spite of the very liberal child-support from the Swedish state as well as free schools from grade one to the PhD courses at the university, free dental and health care, free school-lunches and a generous housing allowance to families with many children, and especially to single parents.

One area that still is backward in Sweden is the day-care situation. Eighty per cent of mothers with small children work, but only 27 per cent of them have their children in municipal day-care centres.

The waiting lists for day-care are a constant source of bitter jokes among Swedes, some parents sign up as soon as the child is born, hoping to receive a place in four or five years. To arrange cheap private care of children is not as easy as in Israel.

Yet, the explanation for the extremely low birth rate in Sweden must be looked for elsewhere. Partly, of course, in the widespread use of birth control, with large organizations providing cheap information and aid. Women who get pregnant with an unwanted child, get a free legal abortion in the hospital.

But there are other factors. One of them being that the Swedish woman is seeking professional fulfillment as well as general realization of herself and her potentials. Living in one of the richest and most liberated societies in the world, she doesn't necessarily look for this form of satisfaction in the role as a mother.

There are also many single parents, afraid of getting burnt again. In the day-care centres in central Stockholm, largely used by white-collar workers and professional people, at least half of the children come from broken homes. Eventually their parents remarry—or "rehabilitate"—often with people who also have children from past relationships.

The new "step-family," consisting of two partners with children from earlier relationships and eventually one child together, is the newest and most talked about phenomenon in Swedish "family-politics."

Recent research shows that this new type of family has small chances for success. No wonder that women are afraid of having babies!

"There are a lot of problems for the Swedish man and the new Swedish woman," says a good friend of mine just now in the process of a new step-family. But I don't think we will go back to old patterns. We are forming a new way of life for men and for women. It is difficult, it hurts sometimes, but it is exciting."

(Part II of Women in Sweden will appear on next Sunday's Today page.)

Uniformly fashionable

LIFE-STYLES, as they are called, get freer and easier, and we dress more and more accordingly. At the same time (at least, up at the top echelons) designers still set the tone for how we look while being free and easy; and what is more, the designer signature turns up as never before in everything from T-shirts and jeans to kids' clothes.

Airlines and hotels, some years ago, also came under the designer touch with the realization that imaginatively conceived staff uniforms could contribute a great deal to their corporate image as well as to the pleasure of their clients, consciously or otherwise.

Before then, uniforms of such establishments had tended to be, well, uniform, and hotel outfits especially were (like hotels) determinedly staid. Then came a period when someone in charge of uniforms would take a fashion-magazine to a uniform workshop and say: "Make it like this, but purple."

Now the established designer is "in," and in Israel's hotel world, nobody is more "in" than Ruth Wollenberg. And not just there: Last year she was invited to the Far East to design the complete line for the new and elegant Malaysia Boulevard Hotel in Singapore, and she has outfitted barmen and chambermaids, receptionists and managers and life-guardians from Tiberias to Sodom, Herzliya and Eilat.

After 40 years in the fashion field, with an atelier for custom-designed clothes for the individual woman, and at an age when many women with four grandchildren might keep busy baby-sitting and cake-baking (of which Ruth does a great deal for her four), she jetted into the new career of hotel uniforms at a whirlwind pace.

Actually, there was a hint of this about 10 years ago, when she accepted an assignment to do the uniforms for "Sherut Shalom," El Al's VIP service, followed by outfits for the Tourism Ministry's hostess staff.

This early encounter with company dressing raised some interesting questions about the difference between individual and staff fashions. "For the individual customer," Ruth explains, "you must basically please only her—and perhaps her husband. When designing for a staff, you must please a great many people—management, waiter, and public, all of whom may have very different tastes. Also, a uniform must first and foremost be practical. It must be able to stand up under endless washings (life expectancy of a hotel uniform is around three years), and not look crumpled."

At the same time, there mustn't be too great a synthetic component, especially in our hot climate. Fabrics must be tested by the Standards Institute against fire and other hazards. And the style must be easy and comfortable, allowing for movement, and suitable for all figures."

A Wollenberg design.

Interestingly enough, she adds, the trend today among airlines is not to select and garb the hostesses to be "excessively glamorous, but rather to have them make the passengers feel comfortable."

Not long ago, Ruth was asked to design the hostess gowns for the Plaza-Tiberias. These caught the eye of Bernhard Kohn, manager of the Plaza-Jerusalem which also needed new uniforms. A special circumstance at the Plaza, which receives many religious guests, is that the hotel's waitresses often appear at catered affairs at Hechal Shalom; so Ruth designed uniforms with three-quarter-length sleeves and a rather high V-neck.

These, in turn, caught the eye of architect Dora Gat, who was busy with plans for a new 350-room hotel in Singapore. She and Ruth flew off to the east, and in two weeks, on the spot, Ruth devised a complete line for 20 staff categories, from bellboy to managers.

"As soon as I arrived, I had to revise all my preconceptions. I like clothes that are breezy, loose and easy. I soon learned that Chinese women, who are small and slim, like to show off their good figures. They want narrow, tight-fitting clothes, and they can move about in them as Israelis couldn't possibly. They are very disciplined, and ready to suffer for style! The heat and humidity in Singapore is even worse than ours, yet they wear pure silk."

All fabrics were selected locally by Ruth, and Singapore workshops operated round the clock filling the order. "Yes, you might say that the situation is a bit different from ours."

The moment she returned to Israel, she began work on a complete line for the new 460-room King Solomon in Eilat—a hotel with a totally different style, devoted to a casual atmosphere and a great variety of activities. The challenges, though, were the same: to work within the colour-scheme of the hotel, and to keep the staff in casual dress but easily identifiable and distinct from the guests.

All this plus a bow to King Solomon: "I did some research on fashions in biblical times, and tried to reflect them in line if not in details. But I did devise a ribbon-stripe with a Shin which appears on many of the staff clothes." There is a huge variety—from the overalls of the maintenance workers to the cornflower-blue Bermuda shorts of the life-guardians.

While still working on the King Solomon, she began work on the ultra-elegant Daniel in Herzliya which, she assured me, will be more luxurious than anything yet seen locally. Next, a completely new line for the Moriah in Sodom; and along with it, a flurry of yet more invitations.

One of the secrets of Ruth's high-powered success is her characteristic insistence on always working at a high-powered, perfectionist pace.

Other designers may sketch an airy fashion on a drawing board and let it go at that. Ruth insists on seeing the job through at all technical stages, from fabric selection through intervening crises and on to the final fittings and stitching. The night before the opening of the King Solomon, she spent her time, after some last-minute shortening, ironing 150 pairs of trousers.

BAKING wizard, Nathaniel Pollak, has made millions of mouths water from one side of New-York to the other. Now, he has retired to his beloved Israel—bringing with him all the tricks of his trade.

Although trained as an engineer, the energetic grandfather came from a long line of bakers, and has had an unabated hunger for the profession.

This has only been matched by his love for Israel. He came in 1942 and then again to fight for the country four years later—after which he returned to the States with an Israeli wife, a graduate of the WIZO Domestic Science School.

Now he has retired to his new home in Caesarea—despite the obvious pull of having three children and nine grandchildren back at home.

It was in New York that Nathaniel owned the Paris Pastry shop for 25 years. His wife dealt with the paying customers while he produced the high-class pastries which were distributed to various outlets in the city.

Pollak also advised and worked in the laboratories of large commercial bakeries, principally the Entenman's Bay-Shore Company which produced 72,000 pies an hour, and three million cakes a week, for the New York area.

He concentrated on fresh fruit-filled, muffins and specialty breads. He also liked to invent filling for quiches, using eggplant, zucchini, broccoli and tomatoes with cheese. He makes a wonderful brownie which is available at the "Israel Experience" coffee-shop in Old Jaffa.

Now Pollak is aching to teach in Israel and has volunteered in some kibbutzim, and has already given some baking courses. He is not interested in a full-time job, but wishes to offer his services throughout the country to anyone who will call him. He is keen to help improve baking production in schools, institutions

Wizard of confection

Lilian Cornfeld and hotels. He is giving a course in the Tadmor Hotel School in the near future.

Pollak is very public spirited, and his love for Israel is unbounding. He is financing a forest in the name of a friend from America who fell in the War of Liberation, near Kiryat Gat.

Below are a number of recipes—and a few of the tricks of Nathaniel Pollak's trade:

Zucchini Bread

This bread is as good as any cake. It makes about five small loaves which can be frozen and thinly sliced.

2 cups blended or finely grated zucchini
2 scant cups sugar
3 cups flour
1 tbs. baking powder
1 tsp. baking soda
1 tsp. salt
3 eggs
3/4 cup oil

Corn Muffins

Makes 30.

350 gm. standard flour
175 gm. coarse cornmeal
1 1/2 cups sugar
1 scant cup oil
2 large or 3 small eggs
1/4 tsp. vanilla
1/4 tsp. rum essence
20 gm. baking powder

10 gm. salt
1 1/2 glasses milk

Place cornmeal, flour, sugar, salt, baking powder, oil and flavourings in a bowl and blend well. Add one egg at a time then add half the milk. Add rest of milk blending until smooth.

The batter is very soft so put it into a pitcher. Pour into greased muffin pans. Bake in oven at 180°C or 375°F.

The mixture can also be baked in a sheet paper lined pan. For this the oven should be slightly cooler and the sheet baked until firm to the touch. Cut in squares.

Tea Biscuits

Makes 20.

100 gm. sugar
115 gm. margarine
2 eggs
1/2 kg. flour
1 level tsp. salt
30 gm. baking powder
1 tbs. dry yeast
1 glass milk
few drops of vanilla
100 gm. raisins.

Mix together sugar, margarine, yeast, vanilla, until fluffy. Add one egg at a time and beat well. Add flour, baking powder, milk. Mix to a dough, add raisins. Let it rest for five minutes. Roll dough out on floured board two centimetres thick. Cut in seven cm. cookie cutter. Place on greased baking tray and let rest for 10 minutes.

Place in pre-heated oven at 180°C or 375°F. Bake for 20 minutes until tops are brown. Serve heated up in toaster. The dough can be cut smaller to get 30 pieces.

(Lilian Cornfeld, veteran food and nutrition writer for The Post, is also author of Israeli and International Cookery. This comprehensive cookbook of Jewish recipes from around the world is now available in local bookstores in hardcover.)

patit NOW WITH WHOLE-WHEAT

You can now enjoy new WHOLE-WHEAT PATIT, made of whole-wheat flour and natural ingredients. It's crisp, it's tasty, it's nutritious, and at only 2 calories per cracker—it's great for your figure. PATIT goes well with everything. Ideal between-meal snack and just the thing to serve your guests. Manufactured in Telma's modern Arad plant, and specially packed for sealed-in freshness.

keep your figure with patit

Sports

Pele wants to turn his soccer magic to political objectives

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP). — Pele, the retired "King" of soccer, says he is preparing himself politically to run for President of Brazil.

"I have a dream; to be the first black president in the history of Brazil," Pele said in a published interview in the latest edition of the weekly news magazine Manchete.

"If anyone thinks I haven't been preparing myself in political terms, he is very mistaken," Pele said.

Pele, 44, led Brazil to three world championships and ended his career after playing for the New York Cosmos in 1977. Since then, he has worked as a globe-trotting public relations emissary for the Warner communications company.

"No other Brazilian has as great an opportunity for contacts with high figures in world politics as I do. For years, I have been taking advantage of these contacts to broaden my knowledge," Pele was quoted as saying.

Pele — looking for alternative action

Pele, whose real name is Edson Arantes do Nascimento, was also reported to have sharply criticized what he called "proven corruption at high levels, while the Brazilian people go hungry."

Commenting on the state of Brazilian soccer, traditionally one of the best in the world, Pele admitted there has been "a great decline in our soccer, beginning in 1975."

"We formed two good teams for the World Cup of 1978, in Argentina, and 1982, in Spain. But the absence of leaders, on and off the field, complicated things," Pele said.

The great American dream

Baseball's World Series, in which the Detroit Tigers and the San Diego Padres are at present doing battle, inspires remembrance of things past in one of Boston's greatest potential pitchers, ARTHUR SPECTOR, now living in Jerusalem.

It was the last of the ninth inning in the seventh and final game of the world series. The Boston Red Sox were behind by three runs. Boston had not won a world series since 1918. I had grown up in Boston and year after frustrating year, I had watched the New York Yankees eclipse the Red Sox at the end of the season and go on to win many world series.

For as long as I can remember, I had always wanted to be a major league ball player. After finishing high school, I decided to try out for a place in the Boston organization, and was placed far down in one of their teams in the lower leagues. Now, after several years of working my way up through the minor leagues in the Boston farm system, I had been brought up to the major leagues half way through the season to help the club in what was likely to be another unsuccessful run at the Yankees for the American League pennant.

I didn't see a great deal of action that last half of the year. The manager, Joe Cronin, preferred his regulars and even though I was convinced I could hit with the best of them, I knew that I was not yet used to the intensity of major league pitching. So I sat on the bench, occasionally being allowed to pinch hit in games that were basically decided before I got near the plate.

Somehow, we won the American League. We beat the Yankees in the final game of the regular season to win the pennant. Now we were facing the Cincinnati Reds (absolutely no indication of their political persuasion) in the World Series. They had won National League with what seemed to us, little effort and were favoured heavily to win.

This final game had gone badly for us. Our manager had used four pitchers but none of them had been able to silence the bats of Cincinnati. This was our last chance. We had the bases loaded but there were two outs, and everything rested on the shoulders of our shortstop. He was a great glove man but not a strong hitter.

Joe Cronin looked down the bench, and, much to my terror, his eyes came to rest on me. He had used practically everyone else, and with great reluctance, he motioned to me to go to the plate to bat for the shortstop. I picked out my special bat and started for the plate. I heard the fans screaming both in encouragement and anger. They were enraged that, after coming this far, Boston's fate had been entrusted to a rookie. I also heard the announcement over the loud speaker system.

"Now batting for Boston, Spector, no. 33. Spector." I was facing the Cincinnati ace pitcher. I could sense the relief on his face, as he realized that he was about to face such an inexperienced player at this critical moment.

The first few pitches were a blur, and I found the bat glued to my shoulder in fear. He seemed to be playing with me as he threw nothing but sliders and curves. The count came to three balls and two strikes. I knew that, if the next pitch was anywhere close to the strike zone, I would have to go for it.

The pitcher went into a full wind up, and uncorked a fast ball down the middle. I leaned back, gritted my teeth and swung at the ball with everything I had. When I connected, I felt the sweetness of the best part of the bat against the ball. I watched the ball sail in the direction of the left field fence, and, as I reached first base, I could tell from the roar of the crowd that the ball was gone. When I rounded third base and the third base coach shook my hand, and I saw the entire Boston team waiting for me at home plate. I experienced a sensation that I had never had before or will ever have again. The World Series was over.

Those few seconds, as I rounded the basepaths while the crowd went wild, were of course, what sports are all about, and for me the perfect moment. Well, almost perfect, for it was only a dream. I woke up, sweating and angry that that moment had not lasted longer. Try as I did, I couldn't fall asleep again, to re-enter the dream and extend the beauty of that moment.

My dream occurred many times throughout my youth. To be sure, some of the scripts had minor changes, although always at the same occasion, the World Series. Once in a while, I was climbing the left field wall to make an unbelievable catch, or I was pitching a perfect game. The variations were numerous, but the principle never varied. I became an American legend.

My dream, of course, was not unique, every boy growing up in America, who ever experienced playing baseball in the neighbourhood lot, had the same dream.

It always amazes me how a certain sound, smell, or taste can instantaneously return one, with great detail, to a specific moment in one's youth. Every fall, such a smell, taste, or sound sends me reeling back to my childhood in Boston, when all of American youth dreamed my personal dream. I still remember the funny little man in the white uniform who sold baseball programmes and screamed that you couldn't tell the players without a programme. We always bought one, mostly to keep score, and to record in great detail every activity of the game. Years later when I finally moved to Israel, and cleaned out the remnants of my youth, probably the most difficult thing to throw out, were a pile of dirty stained baseball programmes containing meticulously recorded scores.

Baseball has always had a fascination for the youth of the United States. Even though it is not exclusively an American game, it belongs in spirit totally to the national personality and culture of American youth. There has never been any doubt in the American consciousness that they own the game, even though, much to the horror of all America, the Taiwan youth beat the best little league team in the United States for several years running.

Ted Williams

I wouldn't be fair to this great game, if I didn't admit that baseball can also be one of the most boring games to watch, if the personal involvement is not there. Boredom is offset by the collection, analysis, and distribution of the mass of information and statistics that are so much a part of the baseball experience, that they are, in fact, as important to the serious fan as the activity itself. Often the action, when there is any, is sporadic, and there is very little, if any, of that magnetic and captivating quality that we find in most successful sports in America, violence.

Beauty, certainly is in the eye of the beholder. I have heard people try to define the beauty of baseball by comparisons to Elizabeth Taylor in her prime, or to Rubinstein playing a Chopin concerto. In the eyes of the American youth of the forties and the fifties, if you had not seen Ted Williams hitting a fast ball, approximately six centimetres in diameter, hurled at 90 miles an hour, with a wooden bat somewhere between six and eight centimetres in diameter, in a high-arc 450 feet away from home plate, with the most natural, effortless swing, then my friends, you have never seen real beauty.

The sport has always had a fas-ination for the intellectual community. John Steinbeck, Philip Roth and Bernard Malamud (whose novel and current movie, The Natural, documents American heroism through baseball) are among many contemporary writers to write serious pieces about the sport. It simply cannot be separated from our personal histories.

This year's version will match two Cinderella teams against each other. I certainly would not have believed anyone who told me two years ago, that this year, the Detroit Tigers would be playing against the San Diego Padres in the World Series.

Detroit has enormous talent and has been rebuilding their organization, for many years, under the noisy but very knowledgeable eye of their manager, Sparky Anderson.

I am convinced that San Diego will not be able to stop them.

Baseball, today, is not the same game with which I grew up. In my youth, America did not yet have to divide its attention, energies, and hero-worshipping with professional football. The designated hitter was nothing more than a glint in his father's eye. The American and National Leagues didn't know about East and West divisions, and salaries were considerably less than that which the President of the United States earned.

All of these obvious deficiencies along with my own increasing years, our current economic bankruptcy, social and political chaos, and the formidable distance of 7000 miles, separating me from the nearest major league ball park have not managed to provide me with any insulation against my annual fall dream. Somewhere between nightmares about Lebanon and my overdrift, dream returns. Times are hard and these days, I can use all the help I can get. Thank goodness, fall is in the air. I have taken my bat and glove out of the closet. Let the games begin.

The sports pages are edited by Philip Gillon and Yaron Kenan.

Supercup showdown

ROME (Reuters). — European Cup holders Liverpool and Italian club Juventus, winners of the Cup Winners Cup, have agreed to stage a "Supercup" match early next year. Agreement was reached after discussions between the two clubs in London. The match will be played next January or February.

Liverpool, last season's English champions, beat Juventus' fellow Italians Roma on a penalty shoot-out last May in the final of the European Cup.

DOLLAR PAZ AND EURO PAZ PRICES FOR 12.10.84
CURRENCY BASKET		PURCHASE	SALE
"DOLLAR PAZ" 1 UNIT		1291.6114	1307.7275
"EURO PAZ" 1 UNIT		1421.2905	1439.8248
S.D.R.		431.1356	436.5151

FOREIGN CURRENCY EXCHANGE RATES FOR 12.10.84
COUNTRY	CURRENCY	CHEQUES AND TRANSACTIONS	BANKNOTES
		PURCHASE, SALE	PURCHASE, SALE
U.S.A.	DOLLAR	435.5825 441.0175	431.7300 447.0700
GREAT BRITAIN	STERLING	1534.4597 1541.1285	1529.7300 1548.5500
GERMANY	MARK	140.1488 141.8973	138.9000 143.8400
FRANCE	FRANC	45.6776 46.2476	43.6800 46.8900
HOLLAND	GULDEN	124.4521 126.0000	123.3500 127.7300
SWITZERLAND	FRANCO	170.9597 173.0838	169.4300 175.4600
SWEDEN	KRONA	49.9120 50.5348	48.8200 51.2300
NORWAY	KRONE	48.8375 49.4470	47.7700 50.1300
DENMARK	KRONE	38.7735 39.2574	37.9900 39.8000
FINLAND	MARK	67.9006 68.7479	66.4200 69.6900
CANADA	DOLLAR	329.9867 334.1042	324.4500 338.6900
AUSTRALIA	DOLLAR	362.4115 366.9336	346.2700 375.3300
SOUTH AFRICA	RAND	250.9115 254.0423	241.3800 268.3000
BELGIUM	FRANC	69.3050 70.1698	—
AUSTRIA	SCHILLING	199.1689 201.6541	197.4000 204.3200
ITALY	LIRE	227.1024 229.9361	214.9600 233.0900
JAPAN	YEN	175.6027 177.7938	174.0400 180.2300

Supplied by UNITED MIZRAHI BANK LTD.

DAHAF
accepts ads
round the clock

URGENT FAMILY ANNOUNCEMENTS, AND ALL OTHER TYPES OF ADS FOR THE JERUSALEM POST

ACCEPTED 24 HOURS A DAY AT DAHAF DIZENGOFF 118 DIZENGOFF (opp. Cassit)

TEL. 239952, 248518

Bank of Israel exchange rates

Friday 12. 1984 IS

U.S. dollar	438.36
British sterling	537.23
German mark	141.00
French franc	45.991
Dutch guilder	125.16
Swiss franc	171.86
Swedish krona	50.213
Norwegian krone	49.141
Danish krone	39.009
Finnish mark	68.350
Canadian dollar	332.33
Australian dollar	364.72
South African rand	252.43
Belgian franc (10)	69.803
Austrian schilling (10)	200.71
Italian lire (1000)	228.34
Japanese yen (100)	176.90
Irish pound	457.70
Spanish peseta (100)	—
Jordanian dinar	1082.7
Lebanese lira	54.800
Egyptian pound	363.84

ONE-AND-ONE CROSSWORD

- ACROSS
- Footnote to armed contingent used for operational pincer movements (7)
  - Egyptian Christian said to be caught in the act (4)
  - Beauty aide appearing in every issue of the magazine (7, 8)
  - It hinges on the number of spectators attending (4)
  - Take off from the landing field (5)
  - Where once a duck stood beside young Valentine's name? (4)
  - Emerge like a girl coming out with a vocal response to a pluck (7)
  - Maybe a yarn-spinner who can't be trusted? (7)
  - We hear that it's more daring than a Rollins Stone (7)
  - Agreement which causes company member to act (7)
  - It serves food containing calcium and iron (4)
  - Obviously not fresh fish (5)
  - What car engines do when not pulling their weight (4)
  - Put up one's socks, maybe, and get back to normal (7, 4, 4)
  - 27 Inch border (4)
  - 28 A lion is disposed to co-operation (7)
- DOWN
- Looked for food — from Meals on Wheels? (7)
  - U-turn by the witness who was originally wrong in his identification (5, 5, 4)
  - They may be soured in fresh vinegar or bred in old vinegar (4)
  - Extend part of river (7)
  - One who dispenses with remedial measures (7)
  - Back up a sober man after a shot (4)
  - If he loses his head, he will still be the same stable fellow (7)
  - Not a public speech, but enough to show the house (7, 7)
  - 13 A full-blooded oath? (5)
  - 14 Boy taken in hand by an American burglar (5)
  - 17 Two male animals bound for cover (7)
  - 18 — (Sorry about that) (7)
  - 19 The army officer who sounds like a bit of a nut, but not a nut case (7)
  - 20 One rats in order to become guilty of it (7)
  - 24 Keen to find a sixpence of old (4)
  - 25 The land-mass part of India/Siam (4)

GENERAL ASSISTANCE

EMERGENCY PHARMACIES

Jerusalem: Givnat, 12 Harel, 633676; Balsam, 810108; Dor Admon, Harel's Gate, 222038; Tel Aviv: Lev Hair, 69 Abad Haam, 613862; Kupat Holim Clalit, 7 Amsterdam, 225142; Netanya: Tzofim, 2 Herzl, 285656; Haifa: Yavne, 7 Ha Sima, 672288.

FIRST AID

Magen David Adom emergency phone numbers (round the clock service): Ashdod 41333; Ashkelon 23333; Bat Yam 435555; Beersheva 78333; Carmiel 988555; Dora Region 781111; Eilat 72333; Hadera 23333; Haifa 512333; Hatzor 36333; Netanya 240111; Tel Aviv 803133; Tiberias 20111.

DUTY HOSPITALS

Jerusalem: Hadassah E.K. (pediatrics, ophthalmology, E.N.T.), Shazar Zedek (internal, surgery, orthopedics), Hadassah M.S. (gynecology); Tel Aviv: Rotsch (pediatrics), Ichilov (internal surgery); Netanya: Laniado (obstetrics, internal, pediatrics, gynecology, surgery).

FLIGHTS

24-HOURS FLIGHT INFORMATION SERVICE
Call 03-972484 (multi-line)
ARRIVALS ONLY (TAPED MESSAGE)
03-381111 (20 lines)

POLICE

Dial 100 in most parts of the country. In Tiberias dial 944444. Kiryat Shmona 4444.

QUICK CROSSWORD 5 Simple 8 Zest 10 Fun-hunter

ACROSS

- Warrior
- Get back
- Negative terminal
- Very slowly (mus.)
- Unmixed
- Line touching circle

DOWN

- Combat
- Nazi police
- Body of horsemen
- Lead bang
- Aim
- Change
- Musical note
- Of current interest
- Sugar
- Opposite
- The East
- Gambling game
- Functionary mark
- Furcifer

Bank of Israel exchange rates

Friday 12. 1984 IS

U.S. dollar	438.36
British sterling	537.23
German mark	141.00
French franc	45.991
Dutch guilder	125.16
Swiss franc	171.86
Swedish krona	50.213
Norwegian krone	49.141
Danish krone	39.009
Finnish mark	68.350
Canadian dollar	332.33
Australian dollar	364.72
South African rand	252.43
Belgian franc (10)	69.803
Austrian schilling (10)	200.71
Italian lire (1000)	228.34
Japanese yen (100)	176.90
Irish pound	457.70
Spanish peseta (100)	—
Jordanian dinar	1082.7
Lebanese lira	54.800
Egyptian pound	363.84

WHAT'S ON Jerusalem

MUSEUMS

Israel Museum Exhibitions: Zigi Ben Haim. Sculptures and Assemblages Moshe Kupferman. Paintings. Works on Paper David Tarkover. Producer of Israel. The Armand Hammer Collection. 16th-20th cent. masterpieces, paintings and drawings by Rembrandt, Rubens, Titian, Michelangelo, Raphael, Goya, Cezanne, Gauguin, van Gogh, Picasso, etc. Children's "world" and activity corner. Scenic-creating home theatre sets and greetings cards. 12 pages from the Cairo Geniza. Permanent collection of Judaica. Art and Archaeology. Rockefeller Museum: Egypt — the other side of the River — funerary objects. Ticho House, works by Anna Ticho. Hanukkah lamps, library and garden area. Visiting Hours: Main Museum 10-5. At 11 and 3: Guided tour in English. 3:30: Children's film, "Waterbury Down".

CONDUCTED TOURS

RADASSAH — Guided tour of all installations * 2-hour tour at Kiryat Hadassah and Hadassah * 4 information, reservations. 02-416333, 02-446271.

HEBREW UNIVERSITY

There will be no tours today of the Hebrew University campus due to the Succot holiday. AMT WOMEN (formerly American Mizrahi Women). Free Morning Tours — 8 Alkalai Street, Jerusalem. Tel. 02-699222.

Tel Aviv

MUSEUMS

Tel Aviv Museum Exhibitions: Art of Sardinia and the end of the Nuraghi period. The Zone. Ezzas Bait's photographs of neo-Nazi street gangs. Nahum Gutman, paintings and illustrations. Collections — Classical 17th and 18th century paintings; Impressionism and Post-Impressionism; 20th Century Art: Selection of Israeli Art. Special loans, including paintings by Monet, Morisot, Pissarro, Bonnard, Matisse, Renoir, Cezanne, Gauguin, van Gogh, Picasso, etc. Open-house: 10-5. Free admission. 1979-84, machine-like assemblages. Visiting Hours: Tel Aviv Museum: Sun.-Thur. 10-10. Fri. closed. Sat. 10-7. Tel Aviv Museum: Sun.-Thur. 10-10. Fri. closed. Sat. 10-7. Tel Aviv Museum: Sun.-Thur. 10-10. Fri. closed. Sat. 10-7. Tel Aviv Museum: Sun.-Thur. 10-10. Fri. closed. Sat. 10-7.

CONDUCTED TOURS

AMT WOMEN (formerly American Mizrahi Women). Free Morning Tours — Tel Aviv, Tel. 20167, 243106.

WIZO: To visit our projects call Tel Aviv, 23299; Jerusalem, 226060; Haifa, 8937.

PIONEER WOMEN — N.A.M.A.T. Morning tours. Call reservations: Tel Aviv, 256096.

HADASSAH VISITORS DEPT. Astor Hotel, Room 01, 105 Hayarkon St., Tel. 02-232411.

Haifa

What's On in Haifa, dial 04-648840.

Friday's solutions

SLICER PROPER
ON E R P E ET PANTOMIMES
BANGEE O N N I
ETI APOLOGISED
DIEST K T O E
U STERN N
STEW SHOT
O I F A COBALT
PROSPECTOR RI
P T A URGHIN
IMPLEMENTE EN
N E E T A E
GLARED SCARED

Quick Solution

Across: 1. Sprawl, 4. Docked; 7. First-class; 8. Donkey; 10. Aston; 11. Gator; 12. Seal; 13. Bids; 14. Seash; 17. Cedar; 20. Sander; 21. Seashore; 22. In vain; 24. Gold Desert; 25. Dodge; 26. Riddler.

Down: 1. Spider; 2. Requisite; 3. Defiant; 4. Detester; 5. Colleague; 6. Ringer; 8. Breeze; 9. Breeze; 14. Sounding; 16. Antennae; 18. Degree; 19. Taster; 20. Riddler; 21. Gender.

ENTERTAINMENT

TELEVISION

EDUCATIONAL:
9:00 Sunrise Train 9:20 Dominic (part 3)
9:45 Dinosaur 9:55 Wreckers at Dead Eye (part 3) 10:20 Wonderful Animals 11:10 The Chieftains — Irish folk group 15:00 Everyman's University: Art in the Age of Technology: Computers 16:00 Rethov Summit 16:30 The Paper Lads (part 6) 17:00 A New Evening — a live magazine (17:30 Circus)
18:20 Story Time
ARABIC LANGUAGE programmes:
18:30 New round-up
18:32 Samira's Kitchen
19:00 Weekly News Magazine
HEBREW PROGRAMMES resume at 20:00 with a news roundup
20:02 Programme Train
20:15 Tui Pop — pop and entertainment magazine
21:00 Mabot Newsweek and Overseas Sports Review
21:40 Dallas: Tangled Web
21:40 L.A. — Arrest Cops Alive
23:00 Sofa Discussion — Zvi Yuzas talks to Prof. Amotz Zahavi
23:30 News
JORDAN TV (unofficial):
17:30 Cartoons 18:00 French Hour 18:30 (TV) 3 Nature Film 19:00 News in French 19:30 News in Hebrew 20:00 News in Arabic 20:30 The Bob Newhart Show 21:10 War and Peace 22:00 News in English 22:15 Magnum
MIDDLE EAST TV (from T.A. north):
13:00 Good News 13:30 Westbrock Hospital 14:00 Insight 14:30 700 Club 15:00 Afternoon Movie 16:30 Spiderman 17:00 Popeye 17:15 Flying House 18:00 Laredo 18:30 Cultural 20:00 Theatre Showcase 21:00 News in Review 21:30 Evening Cinema 22:54 700 Club

ON THE AIR

Voice of Music

6:02 Musical clock
7:07 Bach: Allegro: Vivaldi: Violin Concerto in E major: Moscow: Muscov
7:30 Glinka-Hummel: Memories of Friendship: Spohr: Clarinet Concerto No. 4: Bizet: Excerpts from Carmen (Nicola Galdi, Violoncello; Los Angeles Beethoven): Torricelli: Dialogue: Gounod: Faust, ballet music
9:30 Arensky: Piano Trio, Op. 32 (Esmantina): Ravel: Valses nobles et sentimentales (Marta Aronson); Fauré: Bonne chanson; Rachmaninoff: Piano Concerto No. 3 (Alicia Weissenberg, Bernstein); Mozart: Symphony No. 40
12:00 Peter Menck, doublebass; Naomi Levy, piano: Schubert: Sonata; K. 596: service; 3 Pieces; Wendy Elder-Katzi, flute; Orli Lavran, guitar — Schneider: Sonata: Castelnuovo-Tedesco: Sonata, Op. 20; W. Busch: Sonata, Op. 7, No. 3; Ravel: Piano Concerto in G major, Op. 13
13:05 Beethoven: Turkish March; Sarasate: Carmen Variations (Ricci); Verdi: Aria from Louise Miller (Jose Carreras); Excerpt: Cello Concerto in E-flat, Healed Jonathan Zak); Zvi Avni: Psalm (Kibbutz Arzi Choral); Torelli: Trumpet Sonata; Haydn: 5 Foliosongs; Bach: Toccata and Fugue in D minor; Heide: Aria from Joshua (Cheryl Milnes); Poulenc: Suite Sonata (Galway); Brahms: Movement from Sextet, Op. 18; Weber: Konzertstück, Op. 79 (Alfred Brendel)
15:00 The Church New Year in the tradi-

First Programme

6:03 Programmes for Olim
7:30 Morning Concert (from Voice of Music)
9:30 Encounter — live family magazine
10:00 Programme in Eilat/Hebri
14:00 Best songs
11:35 Education for all
12:05 The 30th Anniversary of Cochin Jewry's Aliyah
13:00 News in English
13:30 News in French
14:05 Children's programmes
15:30 World of Science (repeat)
15:55 News on a New Book
16:05 Thirty Five (part 1 repeat)
17:20 Evergreen University
18:05 Afternoon Classics
18:47 Bible Reading
19:05 Lesson in Tanza by Rabbi Adin Steinsaltz
19:30 Programmes for Olim
22:05 Child and Family Magazine

Second Programme

6:12 Gymnastics
6:30 Editorial Review
6:55 Green Light — drivers' corner
7:00 This Morning — news magazine
8:05 Puss in Sandals — children's programme
9:05 House Call — with Rivka Michaeli
10:00 All Shades of the Network — morning magazine
12:10 Open Line — news and music
12:05 Midday — news commentary, music
14:05 Third Bell — from the Acre Festival
16:10 Safe Journey
17:10 Economics Magazine
17:30 Of Men and Figures
18:05 Press Conference
19:05 Sports Magazine
19:30 Sports Magazine
20:05 Cantorial Request
22:05 Light Music for Wind Ensembles
23:05 Third Bell — arts magazine

ARTS

6:10 Morning Sounds
7:07 "707" — with Alex Anski
8:05 Morning Newsweek
9:05 Right Now — with Rafi Reizel
11:05 Israel Summer — with Eli Yisraeli
12:05 Regards — to and from soldiers serving in Lebanon
13:15 Two Hours
13:05 What's Wrong? — with Erez Tal
16:05 Four in the Evening
17:05 Evening Newsweek
18:05 Sports Magazine
19:05 Music Today — music magazine
20:05 Eilat — Old and New
21:00 Mabot — TV Newsweek
22:05 Songs
23:05 Popular songs
00:05 Night Birds — songs, chat

CINEMAS

JERUSALEM 4,

Sports

Champions humbled as Ohana is deservedly toast of Jerusalem

By PAUL KOHN
Post-Sports Reporter

TEL AVIV. — Eli Ohana, the Betar Jerusalem striker, stole the big show with a match-winning hat-trick against last season's champions and current National League soccer leaders Maccabi Haifa, in Betar's 3-2 triumph before a 20,000 full house at the Bloomfield Stadium in Jaffa yesterday.

The Jerusalem win opened the league race with Maccabi Haifa retaining top spot but only one point ahead of Betar and Hapoel Haifa, who are newly promoted to the first division. Hapoel Haifa beat Shimshon 1-0 with a late goal by Yitzhak Benayahu in Kiryat Haim.

The Tel Aviv derby ended in a shock 3-0 win for Maccabi over Hapoel, the first time in six years that Maccabi have emerged victorious. Meir Ben Shitrit, who was making his debut for the winners after a midweek transfer from Shimshon, scored two of the goals.

Already at 1 p.m., with Bloomfield Stadium steaming under the scorching sun nearly full to capacity, Betar in white and black and Haifa in all-green strip took the field. Betar opened with rare determination. In only the sixth minute Ohana headed past goalkeeper Avi Ran from a Hanan Azulay pass, which the

BLOOMFIELD BASTION AND BLUES — Hapoel's coach Mordechai Spiegel (right) has good cause for anguish as Maccabi's Bonnie Ginsburg stands firm and Maccabi win the Tel Aviv derby 3-0.

JERUSALEM'S TOAST — Eli Ohana

Haifa defence should have cut out in good time.

This opening compensated the fans, especially the Betar supporters, for the absence of Uri Malmilian, the Jerusalem midfielder star, because of injury. David Azulay, signed last week from Maccabi Tel Aviv, took his place with Sami Malka playing the lead role in midfield.

Betar continued to press Haifa into their own half and were rewarded with a magnificent solo effort by Eli Ohana when he scored his second goal in the 24th minute. Ohana beat three defenders before shooting past Ran. The same player headed Betar's third in the 36th minute.

Haifa coach Shlomo Shafer took off central defender Yaron Parcelani and replaced him with Eli Cohen, a change which brought greater stability to the Haifa defence, though the entire team were far from their best.

Zadok Malka came on in the second half to add punch to the Haifa attack. Zahi Arzuli scored a Haifa goal in the 60th minute from a pass by Zion Maril and a minute before the end made the result look respectable with a second goal by Moshe Selektor from close range. But Betar were fully worth their three points, and Ohana was undoubtedly man of the match.

ENGLISH SOCCER

Arsenal rediscover art of entertainment

LONDON (Reuters). — Arsenal, the so-called robots of English soccer, ignored two potentially damaging early blows and marched back to the top of the First Division with a decisive 4-1 win at Leicester. The Gunners lost England striker Paul Mariner shortly before kick-off through illness, handed Leicester a 35-second lead when fullback Viv Anderson scored an own goal but then proceeded to make nonsense of their "boring" image with an entertaining display of attacking football.

The result took Arsenal clear of their London neighbours Tottenham, who had gained the leadership on Friday night by beating Liverpool 1-0. There is a growing feeling the championship trophy may be on its way back to Highbury for the first time since 1971.

Although Spurs and Sheffield Wednesday 2-1 winners at Luton, fill the next two slots, fourth-placed Manchester United appear the biggest danger to Arsenal's ambitions.

United's exciting assembly of individual talents crushed West Ham 5-1 at Old Trafford with goals from Gordon McQueen, playing his first game since he was badly injured in January, Brazil, Strachan, Moses and Hughes.

Though Arsenal's line-up is no less glamorous, their past reputation will not stop critics muttering "method football" through barely stifled yawns. But goals by Brian Tabor (2), Rix and Anderson, who finally got his bearings, have raised Arsenal's tally to 22 from 10 games, the highest in the First Division, and they have now emerged as one of the most entertaining sides in the land.

Anderson, signed from Notts Forest in the summer, made a nightmare start when he ran to meet a cross by Leicester winger Steve Lyness and headed the ball past a bemused Pat Jennings. Having treated the crowd to that slice of vintage Arsenal, Arsenal showed just why football can be such a beautiful spectacle. Inspired by Charlie Nicholas, who missed a second half penalty, they unveiled some scintillating one-touch moves and could have doubled the score but for Leicester goalkeeper Mark Wallington.

Brian Clough, who insists his Forest side is not good enough to win the title, is probably right. They began the day in third place but were made to look distinctly ordinary by struggling West Bromwich who won 4-1 thanks to a hat-trick by England under-21 international Gary Thompson.

With Liverpool languishing in 16th place — 11 points behind the leader — it is hard to look beyond Arsenal, Spurs and United for potential champions.

Liverpool are a sad sight these days and although manager Joe Fagan is the last man to press the panic button, even he must be wondering when — and if — the old magic will return. Spurs, still without Glenn Hoddle, Ossie Ardiles and Clive Allen, overwhelmed them in the first half at White Hart Lane and the time may have come for Fagan to reach for the Anfield cheque-book. Garth Crooks got the Tottenham winner.

DIVISION ONE
Chelsea	2	Watford	3	Barnsley	1	Leeds	0	2	0
Coventry	1	Newcastle	1	Birmingham	0	Blackburn	0	2	0
Everton	2	Aston Villa	1	Cardiff	1	Crystal P.	1	0	0
Ipswich	1	QPR	1	Charlton	1	Fulham	0	0	0
Leicester	1	Arsenal	4	Wimbledon	2	Hull	1	0	0
Luton	1	Sheffield Weds.	4	Oldham	2	Wolves	2	2	1
Manchester U.	5	West Ham	1	Oxford	2	Brighton	0	0	0
Sheff. Utd.	1	Sheff. Utd.	1	Portsmouth	3	Grimsby	1	2	3
Stock	2	Southampton	3	Sheff. U.	0	Middlesbrough	1	2	3
Sunderland	2	Norwich	1	Stretsbury	1	Manchester C.	0	0	0
West Bromwich	4	Nottingham F.	1

GREATER DAN REGION ASSOCIATION OF TOWNS (SEWERAGE) TENDER No. 217/D-4/SP/84 ISRAEL SEWERAGE PROJECT

Greater Dan Region Association of Towns (Sewerage) hereby invites contractors to submit bids for the civil engineering works for an electrical building and other ancillary structures at the Sewerage Biological Treatment Plant.

Tender Documents and Forms of Tender can be obtained against payment of IS 10,000 (non-refundable) from the Engineering Department of the G.D.R. of Towns (Sewerage), 24 Nachlat Benjamin St., Tel Aviv, during working hours 9 a.m.-1 p.m.

Prospective bidders shall submit their bids in two copies on the forms provided and in compliance with the conditions of Tender.

Bids accompanied by a Bank Guarantee of 5% (five percent) of the bid total, valid for a period of 120 days from the last day set for the submission of the Tender, must be placed in the Tender Box not later than November 21, 1984 at 12.00 noon.

The envelope containing the bids should be marked: The Israel Sewerage Project, Tender No. 217/D-4/SP/84, Greater Dan Region Association of Towns (Sewerage).

Bids arriving after the closing date and hour, and bids submitted without the Bank Guarantee will not be considered.

Bids should be submitted according to the conditions of the Tender Documents.

Terms of Payment as specified in Tender Documents.

Bids may be submitted by civil engineering contractors as stated in the Tender Documents.

Additional information is available from the Engineering Department of G.D.R. Association of Towns, Tel. 03-857144.

A site inspection for Contractors will be held on November 6, 1984 leaving the office of G.D.R. Association of Towns at 9.00 a.m.

The Tender Board is not bound to accept the lowest or any proposal for the entire Tender or part thereof.

Y. CASPI
Chairman of G.D.R. Association of Towns (Sewerage)

DIVISION TWO
Blackburn	10	7	2	1	23	8	23	2	0
Birmingham	9	7	1	1	13	8	23	10	0
Cardiff	10	7	0	1	13	7	21	0	0
Charlton	10	6	0	4	15	8	18	0	0
Crystal P.	10	6	0	4	21	15	18	0	0
Fulham	10	6	0	4	15	8	18	0	0
Hull	10	6	0	4	15	8	18	0	0
Ipswich	10	6	0	4	15	8	18	0	0
Leeds	10	6	0	4	15	8	18	0	0
Leicester	10	6	0	4	15	8	18	0	0
Luton	10	6	0	4	15	8	18	0	0
Manchester U.	10	6	0	4	15	8	18	0	0
Manchester C.	10	6	0	4	15	8	18	0	0
Middlesbrough	10	6	0	4	15	8	18	0	0
Milton Keynes	10	6	0	4	15	8	18	0	0
Norwich	10	6	0	4	15	8	18	0	0
Nottingham F.	10	6	0	4	15	8	18	0	0
Oxford	10	6	0	4	15	8	18	0	0
Portsmouth	10	6	0	4	15	8	18	0	0
Sheff. U.	10	6	0	4	15	8	18	0	0
Sheff. Weds.	10	6	0	4	15	8	18	0	0
Southampton	10	6	0	4	15	8	18	0	0
Stretsbury	10	6	0	4	15	8	18	0	0
Sunderland	10	6	0	4	15	8	18	0	0
Tottenham	10	6	0	4	15	8	18	0	0
Wolves	10	6	0	4	15	8	18	0	0
Wimbledon	10	6	0	4	15	8	18	0	0
West Ham	10	6	0	4	15	8	18	0	0
West Bromwich	10	6	0	4	15	8	18	0	0

Off to Belfast

TEL AVIV. — The National soccer team leaves for Belfast today for a friendly match against Northern Ireland on Tuesday. Israel last played in Belfast three years ago, losing 1-0 in a World Cup qualifying match.

Following the 2-2 draw against Greece in Athens last week and injury to players in league games yesterday, National Coach Yosef Mizrahov was due to get together with his "possession" for the trip late last night.

Swiss complaint over Israeli umpiring

By JACK LEON
TEL AVIV. — The Swiss Tennis Association filed a formal complaint to the Men's International Professional Tennis Council about the umpiring of Aharon Sapir during the Grand Prix singles quarter-final between Switzerland's Jakob Hlasek and American Aaron Krickstein at Ramat Hasharon in September. Krickstein won the match 3-6, 7-6, 6-2, after trailing 3-6, 1-5 and went on to retain his tournament title. The Israel Tennis Association received a copy of the complaint at the weekend.

In the letter to the MIPTC — the governing body of the men's game — the Swiss specifically referred to the fact that on three occasions international umpire Sapir overruled the calls of the linesmen in favour of Hlasek and awarded instead the points to Krickstein. These crucial decisions cost Hlasek the match. It was alleged.

Because of the controversial rulings, at the end of the second set, MIPTC supervisor Kurt Nielson and referee Norman Korff took the unusual step of removing Sapir from the chair and replacing him with Herbert Granerier. Israel's other international umpire.

In their complaint, the Swiss Association recalled that Sapir had also been involved in some questionable decisions only a few weeks earlier when umpiring the singles contest between Hlasek and Shlomo Gluckstein in the Davis Cup zonal semi-final at Ramat Hasharon.

Was this legal?

SYDNEY (Reuters). — Australian tennis star Pat Cash was knocked out of the first round of the $300,000 Australian Indoor Tennis Championships here by American Ben Testerman, ranked 50th in the world, who ousted the third seed in a thrilling match 7-6, 4-6, 6-4.

Testerman, a born-again Christian, ended expectations of a rematch between Cash and tournament top seed Ivan Lendl, who clashed in the U.S. Open earlier this year when the Czechoslovak won a tough and thrilling five set semi-final.

Testerman, who was ranked 193 a year ago, attributed his success to a new outlook on life.

He said: "There are two reasons my play has improved so much this year. The first is that I have really dedicated myself to the game. I've really started working on the finer points."

The second, he said, was becoming a Christian a year ago. God had filled a void in his life which tennis could not.

"I now use the talents God has given me to the best of my ability. I have more peace, a self-control in my game," he added.

Not so charming on the field

SINGAPORE (Reuters). — The Singapore Rugby Union has imposed a one-year ban on one of its top players for biting off part of an opponent's ear during a match in Malaysia. David Quek, 29, said he had been provoked and was trying to struggle free during a scrum in the match in Kuala Lumpur on September 29.

Describing Quek as "absolutely charming off the field," Rugby Union president Howard Cashin said: "To bite off any part of another player's anatomy simply cannot be condoned."

He declined to reveal the name of the victim, saying: "It would not be fair. The man is upset enough."

Dutch outside Israel

Post Sports Reporter
TEL AVIV. — Dutch dressage and show jumping riders had the edge over Israeli horsemen in a two day meet at the Kfar Shmaryahu Jockey Club on Friday and yesterday. Four riders from Holland beat local counterparts 89-58 in the first ever equestrian match between the countries.

Top individual rider was Janet Van Sluithout of Holland on "Pericles," followed by Ernestine Hoeger of Holland on "M.Lady" and Israel's Karen Mack on "Ustinov" and Greta Tothuis of Holland on "Prestige." All riders were on local horses, the rider is decided by a draw.

All the horses on display were brought here from Britain, Holland and Germany. Frank De Leede, the organizer of the event together with Nancy Zeitlin, described the competition as being of "a good international level." The match was a "friendly" as Israel is not yet a member of the International Equestrian Federation.

The Israel team was Nancy Zeitlin, Karen Mack, Rachel Levine and Kenny Lalo.

NATIONAL LEAGUE
Maccabi Yavne	2	Hapoel P.T.	2	Macc. Yaffo	0	Hapoel Kfar Sava	1	Macc. Netanya	5
Macc. Yaffo	0	Hapoel Kfar Sava	1	Macc. Netanya	5	Betar T.A.	1	Macc. Ramat Gan	1
Macc. Netanya	5	Betar T.A.	1	Macc. Ramat Gan	1	Hapoel Haifa	1	Hapoel Haifa	1
Macc. Ramat Gan	1	Hapoel Haifa	1	Hapoel Haifa	1	Hapoel Haifa	1	Hapoel Haifa	1
Hapoel Haifa	1	Hapoel Haifa	1	Hapoel Haifa	1	Hapoel Haifa	1	Hapoel Haifa	1
Hapoel Haifa	1	Hapoel Haifa	1	Hapoel Haifa	1	Hapoel Haifa	1	Hapoel Haifa	1
Hapoel Haifa	1	Hapoel Haifa	1	Hapoel Haifa	1	Hapoel Haifa	1	Hapoel Haifa	1
Hapoel Haifa	1	Hapoel Haifa	1	Hapoel Haifa	1	Hapoel Haifa	1	Hapoel Haifa	1
Hapoel Haifa	1	Hapoel Haifa	1	Hapoel Haifa	1	Hapoel Haifa	1	Hapoel Haifa	1

Fall ball tourney

Post Sports Staff
Lord Kitch ASA, Maccabi Tel Aviv and Kibbutz Adami-Shomrat made their way through to the semi-finals of the inaugural Hapoel autumn softball tournament thanks to victories in their respective qualifying sections over the weekend.

Results: Adami-Shomrat 20 Kibbutz Yotvat 4; Adami 7 Enok Hayarden 0; Yotvat 7 Enok Hayarden 0.

Maccabi TA 22 US Embassy 7; Bassam-Mohel 8 US Embassy 6; Maccabi TA 8 Bassam-Mohel 3.

Lord Kitch ASA Jerusalem 14 Promised Land Jerusalem 10; Promised Land 30 Anglican School 11.

Next Saturday's semi-finals at Kibbutz Adami will pit the hosts against Mac. TA and Lord Kitch ASA against the winners of the central section which comprised Cocks Co., Galim, BEC and Arad.

WORLD SERIES

Tigers go 2-1 ahead despite failing to exploit fully wayward Padre pitching

DETROIT. — Marty Castillo hit a two-run homer to spark a four-run second inning and lead the Detroit Tigers to a 5-2 victory over the San Diego Padres on Friday night. The victory gives the Tigers a 2-1 lead in the seven-game World Series.

Detroit were held to seven hits in the game but received help from three San Diego pitchers, who issued a record-tying 11 walks and added a hit batsman.

"Thank goodness they were walking a lot of batters since we just aren't hitting," Tigers manager Sparky Anderson said. "We left 14 on base tonight, and you can't do that and win too many games."

Despite the aid from the Padres' pitchers it took a spectacular twisting catch in dead centre field by Chet Lemon finally to end San Diego's hopes late in the game.

The single-game record of 11 walks was set in 1856 by the New York Yankees and equaled by the Milwaukee Braves in 1957. The 14 runners left on base by Detroit tied the record for a nine-inning series game by the Chicago Cubs in 1910 and tied by Milwaukee in 1957 and Pittsburgh in 1971. The 24 runners left on by the two clubs set a nine-inning record, 1 on one base set by the Cubs and Philadelphia A's in 1910 and tied by Pittsburgh and Baltimore in 1971.

In the second, Lemon singled for the Tigers and Castillo lined his home run into the left-field grandstand off San Diego starting pitcher Tim Lollar, the loser. Lollar then walked Lou Whitaker. Alan Trammell followed with a double on the next pitch, scoring Whitaker for a 3-0 Tigers' lead.

After Lollar had walked Kirk Gibson and allowed a single to Lance Parrish, he was relieved by Greg Booker. He in turn walked Larry Herndon to force in the fourth run of the inning, and was replaced himself in the third after he had issued three walks to load the bases. Greg Harris then hit Gibson with a pitch to force in the final Detroit run.

The game marked the end of the San Diego bullpen's domination of Detroit. When Booker allowed a third-inning run, it snapped a string of 13½ consecutive innings during which the Padres bullpen had held Detroit scoreless. Going back to San

KENNEDY thwarted by magnificent catch

Diego's five-game National League playoff victory over Chicago, the bullpen had gone 22 innings without giving up a run.

Lollar left after giving up four walks and four runs in 1½ innings. Booker walked four more in his one inning, and Greg Harris walked three. They were, in fairness, not the best of San Diego's relievers. Dave Dravecky, Andy Hawkins and Craig Lefferts had been used up, for the time being, as the Padres' starters failed miserably in each of their three World Series appearances. San Diego's starters now are averaging only 3.6 innings' work per game in the series. Mark Thurmond worked five innings in Game One 3-2, and Ed Whitson lasted only two-thirds of an inning in San Diego's 5-2 victory in Game Two.

Bialostocki retains national title

Post Sports Reporter
Orly Bialostocki retained her national women's tennis title by beating her arch-rival Rakelf Binyamini 6-0, 2-6, 6-1 in a see-saw final at the Jerusalem Tennis Centre yesterday. Both played excellent tennis from baseline and midcourt, neither fearing to advance to net. The only weakness in their game was a lack of penetrative first service.

The score did not reflect how even much of the encounter was but Binyamini was the more susceptible to emotional disturbances caused by an unruly crowd and by several disputed decisions brought on by the absence of linesmen until well into the second set.

In the semi-finals, Bialostocki beat Hana Berger 2-6, 6-4, 6-3, while Binyamini put out Sarit Shalev 6-3, 6-4.

The Israel Tennis Association's $20,000 Gall women's international "mini-circuit" got under way yesterday at the Haifa Tennis Centre, with overseas players getting the better of local opponents in qualifying matches for the 32-strong main singles draw which starts tomorrow. The Haifa tournament continues until Saturday, and the series then moves to Eilat for a tournament at the Avia Sonesta Beach Hotel.

Israeli juniors top Britain

By HYAM CORNEY
Jerusalem Post Correspondent
LONDON. — In the first ever junior tennis international between the two countries, Israel beat Great Britain by 17 matches to 13 last week. The ten Israeli girls and boys, all under 12, excelled themselves, playing on an indoor surface unlike anything they had ever encountered before.

A contented Freddie Krivine, the Israel Tennis Association representative in London, who arranged the fixture and managed the team, commented: "The kids were simply superb."

Earlier, the same youngsters played two matches in France but lost both.

Exciting league unfolding

By DON GOULD
Post Basketball Reporter
TEL AVIV. — After seven rounds of play for almost all of the 12 teams in the National Basketball League, Maccabi Haifa, Mac, Ramat Gan, Afeka, and Hapoel Ramat Gan assume an imposing perch at the top of the ladder. But perennial champions Maccabi Tel Aviv still have a game in hand and lurk ominously near the top.

The league goes into a one-week break. Instead of a league game most teams will be in action tomorrow night for State Cup match.

Although one point adrift, Maccabi are in fact still best-placed. If they can beat Upper Galilee in Thursday's make-up game (no easy task at Kfar Giladi) they will automatically jump to the top of the heap.

The two surprising teams near the top are Mac. Haifa and Hapoel Haifa. Haifa have already completed most of their tough matches for the first half and have beaten both Mac. Tel Aviv and Hapoel Ramat Gan, two of the favourites. But they are a totally unpredictable outfit having also lost to both Holon and Hapoel Haifa. Tel Aviv in Tel Aviv. The Haifa team has been strengthened by the addition of Doron Shefa, but could use more bench strength to boost the gigantic efforts of Cook and Terry if they want to go all the way.

The young Holon squad has shown a lot of spunk even though they have yet to get the full services of veteran Niv Bugin who is fighting his way back from a leg injury. Desi Barmore and Clarence Kite fit in well with this young team.

Maccabi Ramat Gan, last year's team of disappointments, look as if they are in the mood for a genuine comeback. New coach Moolie Katzarin has found a way to allow high-scoring ace Doron Janchek to do his thing while at the same time ensuring that some of Ramat Gan's other line players also get into the act.

On the other end of the ladder the disappointment of the season has to be Hapoel Haifa. They too have a make up game to play against Galil Elyan at home, but other than two comfortable victories in early round Kfar Cup play, they have perched pundits by some dismal league effort.

Already, although the season is only a quarter-way through, it is already clear that there is exciting action to be closely followed as the races of both ends of the ladder gets tighter and tighter.

Mac. Haifa	P	W	L	F	A	Pts.
Mac. R.G.	7	5	2	621	541	12
Mac. R.G.	7	5	2	605	509	12
Holon	7	5	2	614	567	12
Mac. T.A.	6	5	1	564	517	11
Hapoel Haifa	6	4	2	606	611	10
Mac. T.A.	6	4	2	585	585	10
Bet T.A.	5	4	1	624	594	9
Gali	5	3	2	576	434	8
Hapoel Haifa	5	3	2	576	434	8
Ben Shimon	4	1	5	456	561	7
K. Cat.	7	0	7	547	1095	7

HIGH SCORERS

	Games	Total	Avg.
Doron Janchek	Mac. RG	7	243	34.71
Desi Phillips	Bet. TA	7	174	24.85
Kevin Magee	Mac. TA	6	143	23.83
Ralph Brewster/Kirby Cat		7	165	23.57
Joel Yanai	Afeka	7	146	20.85
James Terry	Mac. Haifa	7	143	20.42
Mike Langer	Hapoel Haifa	7	132	18.85
Greg Cook	Mac. Haifa	7	129	18.42
Desi Barmore	Holon	7	129	18.42

Bowls champions

The following were crowned as local club champions at the end of weekend play:

Kfar HamaCCARTY: Men — Cecil Cooper; Women — Lily Mithren.

RAMAT GAN: Men — Hymie Shif; Women — Rina Lohel.

RA'ANANA: Men — Cecil Bransky; Women — Lorraine Raban.

SAYON: Men — Ariel Goren; Women — Jane Solomon.

NETANYAHU: Men — Len Awerbuch; Women — Bernice Piller.

LEARNING ENGLISH CAN BE FUN!!

READ

STUDENT POST or HEY, THERE!

the English language youth magazines published by The Jerusalem Post

Student Post and Hey, There! are edited by Susan Bellos Minkovitch, former Jerusalem Post Education Correspondent, and written largely by Post staffers

Read about current political and social issues, the latest in music, sports, fashion and much more. And it's all written in English — a language that will soon feel as comfortable as an old pair of blue jeans.

FIT INTO STUDENT POST AND HEY, THERE!

Subscribe today to Student Post (grades 10-12) or Hey, There! (grades 7-9) and get nine great issues (Sept./Oct. 1984 — June 1985) for only IS 2,500. Just fill in the coupon below and send along with your cheque payable to The Jerusalem Post.

To: The Jerusalem Post, P.O. Box 81, Jerusalem 91000

Please send me the following magazine(s):

☐ STUDENT POST (for grades 10-12) ☐ HEY, THERE! (for grades 7-9)

A subscription to either paper is IS 2,500 (Price valid until 1.11.84)

Enclosed is my cheque (payable to The Jerusalem Post) for IS .....

NAME (please print) ..... CITY .....

ADDRESS ..... POSTAL CODE .....

THE JERUSALEM POST

Ari Rath
Editor and Managing Director

Erwin Frenkel
Editor

Founded in 1932 by GERSHON AGRON, who was Editor until 1955; Editor 1955-1974
TED LURIE. Editor 1974-1975 LEA BEN DOR. EDITORIAL OFFICES AND ADMINISTRATION: The Jerusalem Post Building, Jerusalem, P.O. Box 31
(9100) Telephone 24211. Telex 25121. TEL AVIV 11 Rehov Carlebach, P.O. Box 20126
(61201) Telephone 24222. HAIFA 16 Rehov Nardim, Haifa, P.O. Box 4810
(31077) Telephone 64544. Published daily, except Saturday, in Jerusalem, Israel by The Jerusalem Post Ltd. Printed by The Jerusalem Post Press in Jerusalem, Registered at the G.P.O. Copyright of all material reserved, reproduction permitted only by arrangement.

The last winter?

THE ORDINARY Israeli soldier is not sanguine about the prospects of an early withdrawal from Lebanon. While the politicians declaim upon withdrawal, he is preparing for another winter of Lebanese mud and cold.

And yet there are more than straws in the wind. Israel's government is talking a new language. No longer is its pullback being made conditional upon a similar Syrian pullback. That article of policy, needed by the previous government to save face, has been displaced. What is now sought is a common denominator with Syria joining its interest in securing an Israeli pullback with Israel's interest in a quiet northern border.

Nor are all Israel's hopes now pinned solely upon the South Lebanon Army. An invigorated role for Unifil in policing large areas of southern Lebanon has once again been granted merit. Last week the stage was set for such a role when the Security Council renewed the UN contingent's mandate for another six months and took note of Secretary-General Perez de Cuellar's recommendations for making the force more effective in the context of an Israeli withdrawal.

This willingness to see the usefulness of the UN role also represents a major change in Israel's position. While Mr. Rabin, in opposition, long proposed such resort to Unifil, the argument was not heeded until he himself took the reins at the Defence Ministry.

These changes are not by themselves sufficient. There must be negotiations with the Lebanese Government and Syria. Such negotiations will require American involvement, but that cannot be expected until after the U.S. presidential election.

Those negotiations will not be simple. Israel's security needs must first of all be safeguarded. The government in Beirut, which tends to cover its impotence with intransigence, is a necessary but not reliable party in any negotiation. And the Syrians can be expected to maintain their record of obstinacy in any negotiation process.

Despite the many hurdles to be overcome the direction of events is in view. And Mr. Peres gave them expression when he said in the U.S. that Israel would soon reach decisions on withdrawal. He also made plain that Israel's decisions would not be made dependent upon Syria — a subtle reference to the constraints that prevailed until now.

His remarks, well received in Washington and New York as intended, have caused some comment at home. But they are not new. Both he and Mr. Rabin are firmly committed to extricating Israel from the traps of Lebanon.

However, some in and outside the Cabinet, who participated in or supported the decisions that ensnared Israel in Lebanon, are apparently still not wholly reconciled to the new departures. They are therefore sniping, largely from concealed emplacements. Their position is not enviable. The success of the new government of which they are a part, will reflect upon the failures of the government of which they were a part.

But theirs is a rear-guard action, and not even they will want it to be taken too seriously.

POSTSCRIPTS

PS IT'S A COMFORT, albeit a slight one, that Israel isn't the only country in which writers of signs, menus and posters routinely bungle the English (and other) translations. A road sign on the outskirts of Cetinje, near the southwestern tip of Yugoslavia, for example, wishes departing visitors a "goute reise" in German and "god bay" in English.

Even better, on the bandstand in the main square of Rab, a town on the Yugoslavian island of the same name, two posters recently advertised the coming attraction: Ainal Kebir, "European champion in group hypnosis," who in October 1983 hypnotized 750 people simultaneously in Split, and his 10-year-old apprentice, Bahli Kebir, "the best junior of Europe."

The younger Kebir, says one poster, "endowed by an exceptional talent... has been practising and studying (sic) the art of hypnosis since the age of 10 — until he hasn't acquired the artistic skillfulness which can be compared only to that of his master."

PS THE FRENCH police are to put their famous kepi and cape image in the closet next year in favour of a more practical cap, bombardier jacket and raincoat.

The high, round kepi with the stiff visor will be worn only on formal occasions.

The French Ministry of the Interior, announcing the changeover to take effect in May 1985, said the new uniform would be more suited to "the diversity of police missions."

An air-force style cap with a black visor will replace the kepi, which police say is hard to keep on and too tall in modern cars.

The flowing cape, weighted at the hem with lead bolts to hold it down and for use in emergencies, goes in favour of a gabardine coat with a removable woven lining for the coldest weather.

The couture house of the late Pierre Balmain designed the new uniforms.

IRA BOMB

(Continued from Page One)

anything they had expected from the IRA.

The four-star Grand was sold to the Greenall-Whitely chain last month and hotel manager Paul Boswell said the ground floor was extensively refurbished just before the conference.

Thatcher vowed not to bow to guerrilla violence. "This government will not weaken... Democracy will prevail," she told the closing session of her party's annual conference yesterday.

Lauded in the press for her courage and coolness after the attack and for her defiance of the IRA, the premier yesterday celebrated her 59th birthday quietly at her official country retreat Chequers outside London.

As a police forensic team probed the debris, firemen continued to dig in the rubble for a fourth body, fearing that parts of the hotel could still crash down on their heads.

Police had on Friday named two of the dead — Conservative Member of Parliament Sir Anthony Berry, 59, and Eric Taylor, a Conservative Party official in his early 50s.

The third victim was named by the police yesterday as Anne Roberta Wakeham, wife of the government Chief Whip, John Wakeham. The husband was told the news in his hospital bed today.

Hospital officials said Trade Secretary Tebbit, the man dubbed Thatcher's heir apparent, was sitting up and fully conscious after surgery on Friday. His wife Margaret was in intensive care with spinal and other back injuries.

Hours after the blast, the Tory conference was back in session as delegates streamed into their conference hall next door to the hotel for the final day of the four-day gathering.

Other party activists strolled along the seaford promenade in brilliant sunshine.

There was plenty of anger about the apparent bid to assassinate the premier and members of her cabinet, but there was not a trace of sentiment that the price of retaining Britain's troubled province was becoming too high.

Despite a defiant rallying cry against guerrilla violence, Thatcher's closing speech focussed on the major political issues of the day — the seven-month coal strike, unemployment and defence.

She defended her government's stringent economic policies and rebuffed criticism — some from within her own party — that she was not doing enough to tackle record unemployment.

EVANGELICAL CHALLENGE

By GEOFFREY WIGODER

DURING THE Feast of Tabernacles (Succot), thousands of evangelical Christians will participate in what has become an annual celebration organized by the International Christian Embassy. Colourful groups from different parts of the world will converge on Jerusalem for a week of meeting, celebration and prayer.

Israelis welcome this expression of identification with the State of Israel although many are confused by these groups and their attitude towards Jews. A useful recently issued publication is Understanding Evangelicals: A Guide for the Jewish Community by Yechiel Eckstein, a Boston rabbi who has been active in inter-religious affairs on behalf of the Anti-Defamation League. The booklet has been issued in New York by the National Jewish Resource Centre.

Although there are very many variations of evangelicals, he writes, three ideological characteristics distinguish the evangelical from the "mainstream" Christians: the centrality of Scripture, the stress on the person of Jesus, and the experience of being "born again" which means that it is not enough to have been baptized while a baby but the individual on reaching maturity must make a personal decision to accept Jesus as his personal saviour.

Underlying all these principles is the belief in the Christian imperative to actively disseminate the gospel, or "good news" of Christianity. Eckstein is careful to differentiate the evangelist from the fundamentalist. Until a few decades ago the terms were used interchangeably — and still are in some circles. The fundamentalists originally implied a return to the fundamentals of the church (as opposed to liberal Christians who were seen as having over-accommodated themselves to modernity). Now the more generic term is "evangelical," with "fundamentalist" reserved for the more conservative right-wing of the evangelical community. Indeed, "fundamentalist" today often has the pejorative connotation of "backward."

THERE IS A wide spectrum of evangelicals, who are said to number 40-50 million in the U.S. alone (although all figures must be treated with caution). The major theological issue dividing the "liberal" from the "conservative" evangelical is whether Scripture is infallible. Major differences divide the various groups of evangelicals and it is wrong to lump them together. According to a recent Gallup poll, 20 per cent of evangelicals regard themselves as "left of centre," 31 per cent as "middle of the road" and 37 per cent as "right of centre" on the evangelical scale.

The left are concerned with issues of peace and justice, and oppose many of Israel's policies. On the other hand, they tend to be close to the American Jewish establishment on many domestic and social-justice issues. Those in the centre (he mentions the late Dr. Douglas Young as an outstanding example) are inclined to support Jews and Israel, though not uncritically.

Their solidarity stems more from their sense of justice for the Jewish people and for moral, strategic and geopolitical reasons than from eschatological considerations (i.e. the return of the Jews to their land as a necessary stage preceding the Second Coming of Jesus) — although the latter aspect is not absent. In the U.S. a number of dialogues have been conducted between Jews and this segment of evangelism. Although the members of this group will not — and could not — agree to end evangelism to Jews, its members rarely engage in aggressive, proselytizing efforts which single out the Jews for missionary activities.

The evangelical centre is generally supportive of Israel — but not uncritically so. It is the evangelical right which is most sold on Israel — and on missionizing. They are aggressive in the U.S. on behalf of right-wing causes, hoping to bring America back to what they often call its "Judeo-Christian" moral foundations. They were particularly visible in the U.S. during election times, including the present.

The largest of the Christian far right groups calls itself the Moral Majority which claims a membership of four million. It has become so well-known that other evangelicals complain that the public tends to confuse them with the Moral Majority, towards which they themselves have mixed feelings.

MANY OF THESE right-wing evangelicals believe America has been blessed because it has treated Jews and Israel favourably and they express support for Jews. However, anti-Semitic remarks have been heard in their ranks. Some Jews such as Eckstein excuse these as inadvertent or naive; others take them as betraying a basic underlying anti-Semitism.

However, there is no gainsaying the genuineness of their Zionist enthusiasm, derived from biblical promises and expectations — drawn from both the Old and New Testaments. Events in the Middle East are interpreted as signs of the imminent return of Jesus, the battle of Armageddon and the ultimate conversion of the Jews. Evangelicals differ as to the order in which these events will take place and this can affect the priority given to missionizing. The evangelical right, which received enthusiastic endorsement from Menachem Begin, is the most politically active pro-Israel evangelical group, expressing its support through political lobbying, tourism, and positive media presentations of Israel and its policies (often supporting "Greater Israel" policies as fulfillment of biblical prophecy). Eckstein points out, however, that on the Awacs issue, the most significant showdown over Israel between the Reagan Administration and the American Jewish establishment, all the evangelical representatives and senators supported the Democratic administration against the declared interests of Israel.

Jews in America are concerned with the declared objective of the evangelical right to "Christianize America." The Moral Majority has spoken of its desire to establish a "Christian republic," although it explains this as an attempt to arrest the moral decline in the country. Most official Jewish groups oppose its programme which supports prayers in schools, and opposes abortion, equal women's rights, and rights for homosexuals. One Jewish group, the right-wing Orthodox, Rabbinical Alliance, however, has affirmed its support for much of the Moral Majority's agenda.

In general, much confusion reigns among the Jewish community (as elsewhere) about evangelicals. Many Jews oppose cooperation with evangelicals, especially its right wing. These include Reform leaders and the American Jewish Congress, who are alarmed at the use of religion as an instrument of political coercion and the endorsement of reactionary causes.

ECKSTEIN DESCRIBES divergent Jewish views. Some warn against "selling their souls" to the Christian Right just because of its strong support for Israel. Others feel that the beleaguered State of Israel should ignore their underlying motivations and expectations and accept their support. Still others feel that Jews should seek out responsible evangelical circles and hold a dialogue with them on a variety of issues, which could prove potentially helpful.

Many Jews are uneasy about becoming involved in the evangelical world-view and suspect that inasmuch as the support for Israel may be related to the hope for the conversion of the Jews, when this does not happen, the relationship could misfire and Jews would be blamed as delaying the final redemption of the world — leading to strong resentment of the Jews for their "backsliding." Others fear that at a certain point the evangelicals will "call the chips in" and ask Jews to support various ultra-conservative causes as a quid pro quo for their support for Israel. Eckstein himself optimistically feels that the development of dialogue will bring new understanding for Jewish concerns for pluralism and civil liberties and the dispelling of anxieties on either side. He recognizes that the relationship is based on a basic conflict — the determination to evangelize versus the Jewish determination to survive — but feels that a modus vivendi can be built up, involving give and take on both sides.

Jews, he suggests, will have to recognize the centrality of mission for many Christians but in turn will demand the cessation of crude frontal activities in this direction and its restriction to frameworks of dialogue, model and example, without insistence on conversion. Jews, he feels, should develop the relationship but without compromising their own central Jewish commitments (although he feels that certain Israel-oriented Jewish groups have gone too far in giving legitimacy to missionizing Hebrew-Christian groups on the basis of their pro-Israel activities).

Here in Israel, much can be learned from this document. We must be aware of the perception of a growth in missionary activity expressed in certain quarters but at the same time should keep the entire issue in proper perspective and not be drawn into panicky steps which play into the hands of anti-democratic tendencies in our midst.

The writer is editor-in-chief of the Encyclopedia Judaica and a regular contributor to The Jerusalem Post.

READERS' LETTERS

REDUCING TRAFFIC DEATHS

To the Editor of The Jerusalem Post: Sir, — Every time I read of traffic deaths in Israel and all the asphalt roads Israel has built and is building in Lebanon, I keep remembering my last visit to Israel several months ago. My friend and I hired a car to tour the country. I found myself playing the Israeli (infamous) road game: passing slow moving vehicles such as tractors, trucks, buses, etc. in the oncoming lane until vehicles coming toward us were almost upon us and then we would dart into our own lane.

I cannot help thinking that, if only all that money that went into road-building in Lebanon had been put to use in Israel, building second lanes in each direction, I and all the others that try to pass on the wrong side would save more lives each year than were lost in the entire Lebanon episode.

Also realizing that many lives are lost in the cities due to "crazy" selfish drivers and knowing how Israel is always ready for all kinds of international exchanges, be it diplomats, students, doctors, scientists, etc., I would like to suggest a traffic police exchange. I could almost guarantee that if you exchange up to 100 Israeli police for the same amount of New York or New Jersey traffic cops, your traffic casualties will be cut in half within a very short time. When it comes to enforcing the law as regards traffic, one American traffic cop on a motorcycle or patrol car is worth 10 in Israel.

KEN KAYE

New York.

ZAMBIA'S JEWS

To the Editor of The Jerusalem Post: Sir, — What a pity that when you published an article on such a rare topic as the Jews of Zambia ("The 74th Tribe" — September 26), it is incomplete and inaccurate. This is the feeling of many of us immigrants from Zambia when we exchanged New Year greetings. What the article did state correctly was how closely-knit we were and still are.

Your reporter obviously couldn't include the names of all the Jewish pioneers but we cannot let any article on "the history of Zambia's Jews" get by without mentioning Dr. Mania Dami. It was her devoted care that delivered many of the first generation of Zambian Jews and got us through blackwater fever and malaria.

As to the Ndola Synagogue pictured in the article, it has not been sold. Every Shabbat, my father, Hananiah Elkaim, who has been the building roads on the Copperbelt since 1938, goes to the synagogue, opens the scrolls and reads the portion of the week.

Ramat Hasharon.

AVIVA RON

SHEER EFFRONTERY

To the Editor of The Jerusalem Post: Sir, — In your issue of October 3, Mr. Peter E. Goldman asserts that "the American Jewish community resents the... Abba Eban..." and others "who add ammunition to the propaganda campaign against the Jewish state (sic)..."

I do not know who Mr. Goldman is and it is possible to read a great deal of Israeli and Zionist history without finding out. But his letter would indicate that he is a man of exceptional mendacity and malice. His letter came to my attention currently with invitations from the American Zionist Federation, the American Jewish Committee, the Synagogue Council of America (comprising the Orthodox, Conservative and Reform movements) and the Israel Bond Organization to allow them to honour me at various important occasions. Public opinion polls sponsored by responsible Jewish organizations portray me as the Israeli figure whose voice American Jews would most like to hear in defence of Israel and Jewish causes. Thus, Mr. Goldman's pretension to speak for "the American Jewish community" is sheer effrontery. Mr. Goldman's text reveals him as someone whose views on Israeli security are quite divergent from the interpretation of our interests supported by Israel's prime minister and defence minister, so that his professions of loyalty to Israel's governmental views seems to be quite spurious and tendentious. Our interests can only be prejudiced by American organizations in the United States which involve themselves in polemics against Israeli parties and representatives. I have had occasion to stress this in relation to other organizations which hold views contrary to those espoused by Mr. Goldman.

There is nothing useful or constructive in organizations which incite Israeli opinion to hostility to President Reagan, who has been a staunch friend of our country. Mr. Goldman is very presumptuous in assaulting Israeli spokesmen from the haven of a safe America. Reserve Brigadier Bar-On should not have given his lectures in association with Milhem, but this does not validate the libellous statements in Mr. Goldman's letter, nor does it honour the organization which employs him.

ABBA EBAN

Jerusalem.

SELF-DESTRUCTION

To the Editor of The Jerusalem Post: Sir, — In reference to the plan of the Salvation Army to hold its annual conference in Israel, and the Moonie conference held at the Moriah Hotel this past July, and the Mormons' plans for a branch of their university, and far too many other examples of missionary organizations who have found such a warm welcome in this country, I would like to ask my fellow Jews in this Jewish State: When are we going to stop bending over backwards to accommodate people who have serious designs on our life and soul? Religious freedom is one thing, but self-destruction is quite another.

PHIL CHERNOFSKY

Jerusalem.

OLD AGE PENSIONS

To the Editor of The Jerusalem Post: Sir, — An acquaintance of mine, who receives an old-age pension from the National Insurance Institute, is outraged about the imposition of a tax on this payment for recipients with incomes above a certain level.

He says that NII old-age pensions (without social benefits) are not welfare but insurance payments to which the recipient is entitled by right because he paid contributions during his working years. Moreover, it should be noted that pensions in Israel, unlike those abroad, are not paid according to the level of the individual's monthly contributions but are based on a unified scale, irrespective of the payments made by the worker during many years.

MOSHE BEN ELIYAHU

Jerusalem.

SETTLING GALILEE

To the Editor of The Jerusalem Post: Sir, — As a result of several reactions I have received to the article "Bumpy Road to Aliya" (October 3) about our garin at Mt. Halutz in Galilee, I would like to clarify two points.

We wish to see the completion of an alternate route which would connect the Tefen-Ma'alot region to the Acre-Safad highway not because we consider it a difficulty to pass through an Arab village, but rather because the existing road is an extremely steep, narrow and difficult one which is not designed for the traffic it must eventually carry. I might also add that the construction of the new road is not exclusively for the benefit of Mt. Halutz, but is an extremely important and much-needed line between the Tefen area and the Acre-Safad highway.

Also, I am quoted in the article as saying, "We realize that it's possible to come to Israel and forget one's Jewishness." Even within the context of the article, this is a bit misleading. I want to emphasize that it is our desire that such a phenomenon not take place at Mt. Halutz. We fully intend to live in modern Israel and retain our Jewish identity as well.

HAL APPLEBAUM

Carmiel.

Garin Mt. Halutz

RAFAH-TABA ACCORD

To the Editor of The Jerusalem Post: Sir, — The new government can now at last attend to many pressing problems facing Israel. High on the agenda are abnormally cool relations between Egypt and Israel.

May I therefore suggest that Israel negotiate an accord with Egypt concerning Rafah and Taba. The tragic division of Rafah and its inhabitants could best be solved by inclusion of the entire town within Egyptian territory, thus correcting the inhumane division and uniting its Arab population. Such a move would also close the door to terrorism and smuggling. In exchange, the Taba area would remain within Israeli territory with exact borders agreed to by both sides. Such an agreement would solve two thorny problems and at the same time, help restore the peace process, so long delayed.

LLOYD MORRISON

West Berlin.

'I'M FROM ISRAEL'
Opinions are affected by personal encounter, and you can help develop a positive attitude towards Israel — Spread the good word...

Living With Beauty In ### CANADA HILL

Come And Visit — Our New Model Town House is Now Open

---

CANADA HILL

— Canadian-style living in Jerusalem Built by Canadian developers, whose housing projects span North America. A successful blend of academics and professionals, western immigrants and Israelis. A prestigious Jerusalem suburb, where the first phase is near completion. A few houses are still available for early occupancy.

---

CANADA HILL

SPECIAL OFFER
We can arrange bank-guaranteed mortgages of up to $75,000 for non-residents.

TOUR VA'ALEH

W.Z.O. Aliya and Absorption Dept.
Jerusalem Office — 3 Ben Yehuda, 3rd floor invites all tourists to an evening of

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

on living and banking in Israel

tonight, Sunday Oct. 14, 1984, 9 p.m. at the Plaza Hotel, Jerusalem

Documentary film (English dialogue), Refreshments — Admission Free —

Tourist Centre
62 King George St.
Jerusalem

Sponsored by

ISRAEL DISCOUNT BANK
THE PEOPLE YOU CAN TALK TO

MONOPOL

Monopol Hotel 11-12, 6 Frankfurt, Germany
Tel: 00972 (052) 250171 Telex: 513001
Cable: MONOPOLHOTEL JERUSALEM
Reopened in January 1983. First-class restaurant.
100 rooms, modern furniture. SWR DM 115-148 DWS
Tel: 00972 (052) 250171 Telex: 513001

---

EXCISER

Exciser Hotel 11-12, 6 Frankfurt, Germany
Tel: 00972 (052) 250171 Telex: 513001
Cable: EXCISERHOTEL JERUSALEM
Reopened in January 1983. First-class restaurant.
100 rooms, modern furniture. SWR DM 115-148 DWS
Tel: 00972 (052) 250171 Telex: 513001

JERUSALEM

Call us — we'll take you to Canada Hill from your hotel in Jerusalem
On October 13, 14 and 15 from 11:00 a.m. till 5:00 p.m. and October 17 and 19 from 9:00 a.m. till 11:00 a.m.

Sales office:
Ambassador
REAL ESTATE & INVESTMENTS LTD.
22 RAMBAM ST., JERUSALEM TEL. 02 64804-4 Office Hours 8:00 a.m. - 7:00 p.m.